ACCORD CLOSES CONCLAVES ON DEBT QUESTION

France Accepts President
Hoover's Offer to Defer Payments

LISTS 3 CHIEF POINTS

Both Americans and French
Pleased With Result of Negotiations

London — (AP) — Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald announced in the house of commons today that the British government has renewed its invitation to the powers chiefly concerned in carrying out the Hoover moratorium plan for a conference at London.

The purpose of such a meeting would be discussion of the points requiring consideration following the agreement between the United States and France.

Paris — (AP) — An international agreement suspending payments on all inter-governmental war debts arising from the world war until July 1, 1932, was in effect today as a means of resuscitating the economic life of Germany and the entire world.

American and French delegates, after 11 days of stubborn negotiations, signed an accord shortly before midnight which accepted President Hoover's offer to defer remittances on inter-allied war debts for one year providing Germany's reparations payments also were postponed. All other nations affected previously had signified their acceptance.

The protocol of the accord was initiated in the red drawing room of the ministry of the interior by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and Ambassador Walter E. Edge, representing the United States, and by Premier Pierre Laval, Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, Finance Minister Pierre Flandin, and other officials representing France.

As Mr. Mellon started to affix his initials the pen broke at "A. W." and Premier Laval smilingly handed him another. When all was done Mr. Laval grasped Mr. Edge's hand with emotion and Mr. Edge replied with a "merci beaucoup." Glasses of champagne and an omelette graced the conference table.

The text of the agreement lists the following chief stipulations:

1. Payment of inter-governmental war debts is postponed from July 1, 1931, through June 30, 1932.
2. Germany will pay the unconditional annuity of the Young plan to the Bank for International Settlements which in turn will reloan it to her.
3. The suspended payments will be subject to interest and will be repayable in ten annual installments beginning July 1, 1933.

Premier Laval issued a statement pointing out that France had safeguarded her interests but had extended the olive branch to Germany.

"It is an admission," which constitutes a heavy sacrifice for our country," he said. "It will be understood that the government wished to maintain that Franco-American solidarity which is a condition of international cooperation more than ever necessary for peace."

"It will be observed that the government has not allowed France's sacred right to reparations to be limited."

"If from the accord confidence is born again in the world, our gesture will not have been vain. And if in Germany the bearing and sense of our generous attitude is understood, a new era should open for the two peoples."

Mr. Mellon and Mr. Edge collaborated on a statement expressing similar sentiments.

"The American negotiators express to the American public their happiness on this occasion," they said, "and their appreciation of the generous efforts of the French government to reach an agreement des-

J. D. ROCKEFELLER TO OBSERVE 92ND BIRTHDAY TOMORROW

New York — (AP) — John D. Rockefeller, emperor of oil, will be 92 tomorrow and his birthday schedule will observe the old adage:

"Business before pleasure."

Arising early, the elderly capitalist is expected to spend an hour or so in the forenoon at work with a secretary.

Despite his age, Mr. Rockefeller's health was described by his representatives as "excellent."

If the weather is fine, his representatives said, he'll probably play a round of golf and take his daily motor ride through his far-flung estate at Pocantico Hills.

In the evening there will be a birthday dinner for just the members of his family, including his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and the grand-children.

COUPLE FACING CHARGES AFTER MAN IS BEATEN

Milwaukeean Attacked and
Sick Bed—May Die

Milwaukee — (AP) — Attacked and left unconscious on his sick bed July 4, Joseph Tomasunas, Sr., 46, painter and carpenter, today was in a hospital where doctors said his injuries likely would prove fatal.

Tomasunas was discovered by his three children, Joseph, Jr., 15, John, 12, and Florence, 6, previously ordered to stay away from the sick room by their mother, Mary 42, who told them their father was too sick to see them. The children ran into the street screaming, "daddy's dead!"

Police heard the children cry. They investigated and arrested the mother and a boarder in the home, Nicholas Kramas, 37. The couple was held on charges of assault with intent to kill after confessing, police said, they took turns at beating the helpless carpenter with a baseball bat. The husband suffered a crushed skull, several fractured bones and severe body bruises.

The wife admitted she and her husband had a "little quarrel," but police early today said they had not determined the motive for the attack.

Profit-Taking Wipes Out Early Stock Market Rally

Traders Not Surprised by Downturn After Early Morning Gains

New York — (AP) — A heavy volume of profit-taking and short selling broke the stock market sharply today, bringing net losses of $2 to nearly $10 a share. The most active trading came in the last hour, although the market was headed downward throughout the busy session after a rise of $1 to $3 at the opening.

New York — (AP) — After a gesture of strength at the opening, inspired by news of the moratorium settlement, the New York stock market reacted substantially today, replacing initial gains of $1 to $3 with quotations that in many instances were $2 to $5 under Monday's close.

Wall Street was hardly surprised by the downturn, since it had been widely predicted that the old advice about "selling on the good news" would be followed as soon as the debt matter had been cleared up. The sharp decline was accompanied by fairly active trading for a time, but the supply of stocks for sale gradually dwindled and the pace was slackened.

United States Steel Common broke more than $4 a share under its final quotation of yesterday, shipping below its par value of $100. The early gain had amounted to $1. There were losses of $5 to $6 in Allied Chemical, J. I. Case, Columbian Carbon, Atchafalpa, Eastman Kodak and New York Central, while Bethlehem Steel, American Can, Union Pacific, Southern Railway, American Telephone, among numerous others, lost $3 or more.

Wall Street was undisturbed by the abrupt about-face. It was pointed out that the strong recovery following President Hoover's first announcement of his plan in June had been a temporary phenomenon. The actual settlement of the negotiations and that, for the time being at least, the market appeared to lack further stimulant.

London — (AP) — Buoyed by news of the war debt agreement at Paris the London stock exchange today showed a firm advance over yesterday's close although profit taking toward the end of the day caused prices to ease somewhat.

Internationals fell off a little from the best point of the day. German bonds closed slightly down from the best quotation of the day.

Berlin — (AP) — Although the psychological effect of the Hoover debt plan was mostly spent during the fortnight since it was announced, its reaction now that the negotiations at Paris have ended lifted prices on the Boerse today high enough to wipe out a good part of yesterday's losses.

After initial gains profit-taking set in and stocks fell off a couple of points, but at the close and after official hours, the tendency was well maintained.

Pressure on the money market was slightly relieved and some disappointment was felt that the demand for foreign currencies still aggregated 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 marks to meet credit withdrawals previously notified but not yet effected.

THINK CANADA, U. S. NEAR PACT ON WATERWAY

Premier Bennett Reported
Willing to Push Forward
Plans for Project

Washington — (AP) — Strong indications were evident in official circles today that Canada and the United States were making progress toward an agreement to proceed with the St. Lawrence waterway.

Hopeful indications that Premier Bennett of Canada would be willing to push forward the waterway project have reached the Washington government.

Hanford MacNider, American minister to Canada, and Major W. D. Herridge, Canadian minister to the United States, talked with President Hoover at the White House today, but there was no official statement as to the purpose of the visit. Acting Secretary Castle of the state department, described the visit as of "no significance," but officials said it could be assumed that the waterway project was discussed.

The next formal move between the two governments would be a Canadian reply to an American note of last September asking whether the Ottawa government was ready to proceed with the project. Canada delayed replying until Minister Herridge could discuss the question with the American government.

The United States has suggested that a commission be appointed representing each country to settle the differences remaining after years of discussion of the project. Indications have been, however, that Canada would prefer to negotiate through diplomatic conference channels.

Premier Bennett is now engaged with the work of parliament, but officials here expressed a hope that a favorable move would be forthcoming after parliament adjourned.

Albany, N. Y. — (AP) — A one-day convention of the Great Lakes-Hudson Waterways association opened today on the steamer "Berkeley" on the Hudson river, one of the association's links in a proposed national waterways system.

The visitors were to inspect the Albany port facilities before listening to United States Senator Royal C. Copeland of New York.

The Great Lakes-Hudson association favors a water connection with the mid-west by way of the Great Lakes, canals from Oswego to Albany and down the Hudson to New York. Other groups favor water routes from the agricultural belt of the central states by way of the St. Lawrence river to the Atlantic seaboard.

M. F. Bowen of Washington and Buffalo, had a new waterways plan for the Great Lakes-Hudson association to consider. His project, to cost $50,000,000, provides for two canal branches, east of Oswego, one to extend to Albany and the other to go via the St. Lawrence river.

Bowen, a former engineer of the Niagara-St. Lawrence and Mohawk Ship canal. He claims power plants provided in the plan will generate 2,500,000 horsepower and this electric energy will pay in full the navigation costs and earn 8 per cent for 3,000,000 shareholders.

Prefers Death

John Walker
Dies At Home
In Brooklyn

New York — (AP) — John Brisben Walker, nationally known publisher, engineer and crusader for world peace and other causes, died today at his home in Brooklyn. He was 84.

He was formerly publisher and editor of the Cosmopolitan magazine and owner of the Stanley patents for his automobiles, a business which he organized from coast to coast.

Along with other activities which crowded his long life, he was a rancher, educator, road builder, humanitarian, politician, farmer and soldier in a Chinese army.

Born in the Monongahela river valley, Pennsylvania, he was educated at Georgetown college, Washington, and West Point. After resigning his cadetship he went to China and served for two years in the Chinese army.

Returning to the United States in 1870, he engaged in iron manufacturing in the Kanawha valley, W. Va. When the panic of 1873 came he began himself worth $500,000 but when it ended he was penniless.

Then he went into journalism, getting his start by writing a series of articles on minerals and manufactures for the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette. That led him to the managing editorship of the Pittsburgh Telegraph and the editor's chair of the Washington Daily Chronicle.

After three years of journalism, he went into farming and introduced alfalfa on a large scale. He owned a 1,600 acre farm he bought near Denver. He called it the Berkeley farm, it became the model for the region.

His friends laughed when he bought bottom lands along the Platte river, but he devised a means to control the river current and sold out to railroad interests at a reputed profit of $900,000 on a $100,000 investment.

When he bought the Cosmopolitan magazine for $200,000 its circulation jumped from 15,500 to 151,000. William Dean Howells became his literary adviser and the magazine achieved several publishing sensations. It was eventually sold to William Randolph Hearst.

He was welcomed by American Ambassador John W. Gervitt and Italian officials and was cheered by a considerable crowd. He was expected to leave shortly for Rome in order to begin conferences with Premier Mussolini and others by Thursday.

He was accompanied by Mrs. Stimson and a small party. They had a pleasant, restful voyage across the Atlantic and anticipated seeing the sights of Italy.

ACCUSE SUITOR OF DEAD MAN'S WIFE IN CRIME

Arrest Follows Jury's Verdict That New London Men Were Poisoned

HAD ACCESS TO POISON
Witness Said Strychnine
Was Kept in House
Where Riske Lived

Edward Riske, 48, New London laboring man, arrested at New London Monday afternoon on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the deaths from strychnine poisoning of Henry Kopitzke, 46, and Louis Hoffman, 52, both of New London, at a bar, dance at the Island Douglas farm near Waupaca Saturday evening, June 20, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Justice F. A. Archibald, New London. He was bound over to the November term of circuit court of Waupaca-co., and taken to the county jail at Waupaca where he will be held without bond until his trial.

His arrest followed the verdict of a coroner's jury which found that Kopitzke and Hoffman came to their deaths from strychnine poisoning by unlawful means at the hands of a person or persons unknown. Scarcely 10 minutes were required by the jury to reach its verdict. Reaching about eight minutes to 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, the jury returned at 3 o'clock.

The poison deaths, climaxed by the suicidal drowning early Sunday morning of Mrs. Hoffman, widow of one of the slain men, stirred up New London to a high pitch. It continues to be the chief subject of conversation around that community.

Scheduled to open in the council chambers on the second floor of the New London city hall Monday morning, the inquest was adjourned to the Grand theatre when it became apparent that the council rooms would not begin to hold all those who wished to hear the testimony. Even the main floor and gallery of the theatre were filled to capacity. It was estimated that 500 or more attended the proceedings.

Wanted Divorce
Riske and Mrs. Hoffman had carried on an affair for about a year, according to the testimony submitted by a number of witnesses. The courtship continued during the absence of Mrs. Hoffman's husband from the city for about five months and since his return to New London last January. When Hoffman returned, Riske urged the woman not to go back to her husband. He even advised a divorce, and once he offered her the $50 a month of a divorce, she resented the offer. She turned down the offer, however.

Miss Elizabeth Riedl, cousin of Mrs. Hoffman, who lived with the Hoffmans for about 31 years, testified about the warm friendship that existed between her cousin and Riske. She said that Riske told Mrs. Hoffman to keep the curtains of her house closed at night as a warning to him not to call on such occasions. On the other hand, if she was not entertaining any guests, she was told to keep the curtains down.

"Mrs. Hoffman told me that Riske cared for her, but she also said that she did not care for him," Miss Riedl declared. "Riske used to date with her frequently, and occasionally they exchanged notes."

Edward Hilde, who lives in the same house with Riske, described Riske's noticeable regard for Mrs. Hoffman.

"Riske didn't seem to like it when she took her husband back," he said. "He prophesied that they wouldn't last long together. Once he spoke of her as the best woman in Hamilton's plant, because she was so nice and quiet. They worked near each other at the plant."

Tells of Liquor Sale
Hilde first got into the moonshine whiskey to Kopitzke at the William Opper soft drink parlor early in the evening of June 20. Riske was with Kopitzke when the latter made the purchase. Hilde took a drink out of the bottle with the other two men, but he suffered no ill effects.

The next morning, according to Riske, Hoffman again had company as he performed an autopsy on both men, sending their organs to Dr. E. F. Milschavich for analysis. His report stated that there was

Declares Lost Dauphin's Son Reared By American

Clearwater, Fla. — (AP) — The lost dauphin of France, son of the executed Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette, was not a victim of the revolution, according to Mrs. Madeline Buchanan Gill, who escaped to Canada and had a son who was reared by John C. Calhoun.

The commonly accepted story is that the dauphin died in prison, but the version of Mrs. Gill, a social leader here, is based on documents of the late Princess de Montigny, of Belgium, whose estate is now in litigation in Tampa.

Mrs. Gill said that after the beheading of Marie Antoinette in 1793, the Countess Buchanan used her will as her lover, Barras, an official of the new republicanism, to smuggle the youth to Naples. Des-

DELAYS FINAL COURT ORDER IN FALL CASE

Washington — (AP) — Justice Bailey of the District of Columbia Supreme court today postponed action in the case of Albert B. Fall until Thursday.

Government counsel had announced they would ask Justice Bailey to order that Fall's sentence of a year in prison be carried out immediately. The hearing was put off because of other cases.

Justice Bailey said that after the beheading of Marie Antoinette in 1793, the Countess Buchanan used her will as her lover, Barras, an official of the new republicanism, to smuggle the youth to Naples. Des-

Japanese Troops Move To Crush New Outbreaks Of Koreans

82 DEATHS ARE LISTED IN TWO DAYS OF RIOTING

Hundreds Injured in Clashes Between Chinese and Korean Groups

Tokio—(AP)—The war office today announced the movement of Japanese troops to the scenes of clashes between Chinese and Koreans which in two days have resulted in 82 deaths and hundreds of injuries. The soldiers were sent to cooperate with Japanese gendarmes in keeping order.

Fifty officers and men were sent to Peking, where 82 Chinese were slain Sunday and yesterday as mobs of infuriated Koreans ran wild. Thirty officers and men were dispatched to Chemulpo, where the other fatalities occurred.

Extra military guards were thrown about all army warehouses, magazines and armories in Korea. Tokyo officials said these had been taken as precautionary measures although no large scale anti-Japanese movement had been reported.

The Japanese cabinet today considered the Korean outbreaks and was understood to have agreed that while the government has no national responsibility for the acts of the rioters, nevertheless the Chinese sufferers and families of those slain should be compensated in the near future.

The number of Chinese homes, shops, laundries and restaurants destroyed has not yet been calculated, but is expected to run into the hundreds.

Retaliation Feared
Any continued agitation against Chinese in Korea was expected here to cause retaliatory action in Manchuria. Authorities here said there were more than 600,000 Koreans in Manchuria.

Determined to crush the agitation, Japanese authorities announced the arrest of 90 Korean agitators at Peking this morning and 400 at Seoul. Several hundred were arrested at the other trouble centers.

Japanese police announced seizure of tons of swords, iron bars, wooden clubs and pistols.

Seoul reported 3,000 Chinese left their homes and fled from the city, and Chinese were fleeing from various other towns for the quickest routes to China.

The Japanese press generally condemned the violence, many papers urging the government to adopt severe measures to prevent recurrence.

The trouble began last Wednesday when 500 Chinese attacked about 200 Koreans employed on an irrigation project at Wampashan. The Chinese, objecting to the employment of Koreans on the job, wrecked a dam and destroyed several Korean houses. The killing of Chinese at Peking and Chemulpo followed.

OBJECT TO CITY'S PAVING ASSESSMENT

Two Property Owners Voice Protest Against Oneida-St Project

Two property owners on S. Oneida-st., Reinhold and Otto Hanneman, appeared at the public hearing on the assessment of benefits and damages for the resurfacing of the street at city hall Monday afternoon.

Both objected to the resurfacing and to the assessment, which is 50 cents a running foot. The assessments will be either confirmed or changed at the meeting of the common council Wednesday, July 15.

The board recommended to the council that the assessment of benefits and damages for the paving of N. Washington and Ann-sts and the installation of a sewer on W. Washington-st be confirmed, and that the contract for the W. Washington-st paving be awarded to Maher and Dieder, the one for Ann-st to the F. P. Caughlin company, and the W. POST AND GATTY PREPARING FOR HOMEWARD LAP

Aviators Will Hop Tomorrow for Week's Visit in Oklahoma Cities

New York—(AP)—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty returned by train this morning from Washington and after a hasty breakfast went back to bed to rest after the rigors of their reception in the capital where they were congratulated on their world flight by President Hoover.

Their engagements today included a call on the Australian consul, Gatty being a Tasmanian. Tonight they will be guests of honor at a banquet given by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America where they will receive the greetings of leaders of the aviation industry.

Washington—(AP)—Aviation's new Magellans, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, today faced the last lap before taking the road westward back home.

Behind them lay capital acclaim led by President Hoover and Vice President Curtis ahead was another New York reception before they take the air tomorrow on a one-stop flight to Oklahoma for a week's visit in Tulsa, Oklahoma City, and Chickasha.

With them, as they prepared to fly away in a transport plane, they bore remembrances of cheery greetings from the president, globes engraved with the route of their world dash awarded by Secretary of Commerce Lamont for the National Press club, a trophy from the builders of the Winnie Mae, and scrolls as honorary members in the National Aeronautical association.

Post carried away a new record for himself—the longest talk he has ever made before an audience.

Coaxed by Senator Bingham, Connecticut, toastmaster at the evening banquet, the bashful flier, who is more at home in the cockpit of an airplane, hit his stride in relating a stage-by-stage account of the world journey.

"Seems Like Dream"
"It was the greatest thing I could think of in an airplane," he explained in accounting for the start. "I don't know what it is all about yet—it seems like a dream to me."

Gatty paid tribute to Post's ability, saying: "I don't know of any other pilot in the world I'd care to go through the same experience with but Wiley Post."

"We must share the honor, however, with the plane, its motor, and the instruments. We learned a lot of things that we hope will be translated into aids for aerial navigation. A prediction that it will not be long before man will follow the sun and keep up with it around the world was made by F. Trubee Davis, an assistant secretary of war for aeronautics, while William P. MacCracken, former assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, told the fliers they were pioneers "on an avenue of commerce and service to mankind."

Mrs. Post and Mrs. Gatty heard their husbands acclaimed.

The fliers said that they had given no thought to the future. After a week in Oklahoma, they will return to New York to make their plans.

Their acceptance of honorary membership in the Aeronautical association made them the sixth and seventh men on a list composed of five living men, Orville Wright, Thomas A. Edison, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, and Dr. Hugo Eckener.

Senator Bingham said he would present to congress a bill empowering the president to award the fliers special gold medals in commemoration of their feat.

German Child Is Named For Hoover After Debt Meets

Berlin—(AP)—President Hoover defeated Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today in obtaining the first personal recognition for the adoption of the reparations holiday.

The name Hoover was given to a baby born in Zehlendorf, a suburb of Berlin, in gratitude for America's beneficent action toward Germany. The parents said the child would have been named Mellon if it had been a girl.

Chicago Driver Sent to Jail for 90 Days—Girl Seriously Injured

Bert Nelson, Chicago, Ill., was sentenced to 90 days in Waukegan jail, and his companion, Erik Carlson, Minneapolis, Minn., was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace William Clark at Weyauwega Tuesday morning following an automobile accident on Highway 10 Monday afternoon in which Miss Ruth Raaby, 12 year old Neshkoro girl, was seriously injured.

Nelson was charged with drunken driving and Carlson with drunkenness. A third member of their party, David Nystrom, also of Minneapolis, was not held.

Miss Raaby and her father, the Rev. C. The drivers in the Carlson car had just changed hands at a steering wheel when the crash occurred. It was brought out in justice court this morning.

According to testimony of the Rev. Mr. Raaby, Nelson had turned out to pass another car and failed to return to the right side of the road.

The Raaby girl received severe cuts and bruises about the head, face, arms and legs from flying glass of the windshield and right window.

Nelson and Carlson also received severe cuts and bruises about the face and hands. Nystrom escaped with a severe shaking up. Nelson and Carlson were arrested shortly after the accident and lodged in jail.

99,000 DIED IN ACCIDENTS DURING 1930

33,000 Meet Death in Auto- mobile Crashes, National Council Reports

Death by accident claimed the lives of 99,000 persons in the United States last year, the largest number in the history of the world, according to statistics made public recently by the National Safety Council. Of this number about 33,000 met their deaths in automobile accidents.

Traffic fatalities in the country last year increased approximately 5 per cent. In addition to the 33,000 motor vehicle fatalities there were 1,000,000 people injured in auto accidents, and property damage totaled nearly $1,000,000,000.

Auto fatalities in which trucks, taxicabs and buses are involved are declining due to safety campaigns in various parts of the country, the safety council says.

Speeding is a factor which caused 19 per cent of motor vehicle injuries and 29 per cent of fatalities, according to 1930 figures. Ninety-four per cent of drivers involved in fatal auto crashes were men.

Other statistics gathered by the council show that during the last three years the number of private cars involved in accident fatalities increased 37 per cent. During the same period the number of buses, taxis and trucks involved decreased an average of 19 per cent.

Defects Big Factor

Mechanical defects are a contributing factor to 25 per cent of motor fatalities. Automobile deaths have risen to more than 10 times their 1918 rate.

Among children of school age, automobile accidents hold first place as the most common cause of accidental death. There are about 35 non-fatal accidents to every single fatal crash.

The highest car death rate in the world is that of the United States, which figures about 20.3 to every 100,000 population. Australia is next, with a ratio of 14 for every 100,000. Norway has the lowest death rate with 2.5 for every 100,000 population.

Collisions with other motor vehicles or fixed objects accounted for an increase of 42 per cent of the fatal automobile accidents during the period from 1927 to 1930.

Pedestrian deaths due to collisions with automobiles increased five per cent since 1927. New York with 3,090 motor vehicle fatalities in 1930, led all other states. Nevada, with only 33 fatalities, had the least number.

Nearly four-fifths of the automobile fatalities during 1930 involved privately-owned automobiles, the council reports.

Cherra Punji, in the hills of Assam, is now said to be the wettest spot on earth. The latest average rainfall for the town, based on records gathered for 49 years, is 428 inches a year.

Rural School Boards Are Asked To Continue Music Program During Next Year

Rural school board members are being urged by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, in a bulletin letter issued this week, to make plans for joining the county rural school music system again this year. It will be the fourth year since the program was originated and instituted by Mr. Meating and already hundreds of counties throughout the United States have followed the plan to provide music for their rural pupils.

Ever since the program was instituted in Outagamie-co Mr. Meating has been receiving scores of inquiries about it each month and these inquiries still continue unabated. Following is Mr. Meating's letter to the rural school boards:

"There is a bit of the divine spark in every child whether he is born in the country, in the city, or in the most richly equipped nursery. The lack of means may retard the development of this spark or the awakening of the gift of self expression, but it should not be lost if the proper loving care and unselfish parental interest are extended to children when they are of school age.

Seeks Self Expression

"We are living in an age of machinery, and the spirit of this age has produced many mechanical forms of music; but listening to a phonograph or a radio does not satisfy the inner spirit of your child. He wants to feel the joy of self expression that some knowledge of music gives him. He needs to know something about music so that he can fully enjoy the concerts that now fill the air—so that he can take part in them himself.

"What happiness awaits the parents whose children have learned to express themselves, however modestly, through the medium of music! Watch their progress; see their happy faces when they have known the joy of accomplishment. What real parent will deny children the chance to participate in the great cultural movement that is sweeping the country, and which is taking hold of our Nation through a new appreciation of the value of music? Leaders everywhere rightly feel that music alone can cure some of the ills that post-war indifference, pessimism that comes with business depression, and the general superficial standard of living that the present day have brought.

"Outagamie-co has started a movement that is being watched by the entire Nation, and I am proud of the school districts that have helped to develop this program. You have an opportunity now to hold the proud position that we have attained. I am expecting much of you, and I am relying upon the fine spirit that has moved you in the past to see that our boys and girls have some heart and soul education as well as head education. The small cost of our music education—about $9 a month—makes it easily possible for your district to give your children this opportunity to learn the fundamentals of music. I have given much time and thought to our music program, and I am sincere in hoping that you will do all you can to see that it is supported. If your district has had music, will you not continue to offer it? If yours is one of the few districts not yet enrolled, will you not come in this year so that your boys and girls may be prepared to take their proper part in some High School orchestra or chorus? All high schools now have these organizations, and you will be depriving your boy or girl of a value means of self expression if you do not follow my advice.

"I shall be very happy if your district votes to join or continue the music plan that has proved so successful. Please see that the matter has proper attention at the annual meeting, July 15."

From the report of a famous scientist who studied the effects of LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—

"During the course of some recent investigations...we became interested to ascertain whether Ultra Violet Rays produced any change in the quality of the cigarettes. It may interest you to know that I was able to detect a very definite difference in the irritant qualities of the treated and untreated cigarettes. Several tests were made, not only on myself, but others as well, and we experienced little difficulty in selecting the treated or irradiated cigarettes as distinctly less irritating to the mucous membrane of the nose and pharynx than the control or untreated cigarettes."

Business Sentiment Improves As Result Of Moratorium Pact

EUROPE MORE OPTIMISTIC AS ACCORD RESULT

Improvement of Last Two Weeks in South America and Asia Continues

Washington—(AP)—Improved sentiment in business circles as a result of the debt moratorium pact were reported by the commerce department today in its weekly review of world conditions.

The improvement was especially noticeable in European countries, while the better outlook in South America and Asia reported by trade commissioners during the last two weeks continued.

"Several countries report improved sentiment as a result of the likelihood of a debt moratorium and actual business has been stimulated in several regions," the department said, adding:

In the United Kingdom after notable dullness in the first half of June considerable optimism developed and activity in cotton textiles improved. The British embargo on livestock imports from the Irish Free State owing to foot and mouth disease in northern Ireland has affected the industry.

Hopeful indicators have appeared in Italy, including lower unemployment, a continued reduction of the unfavorable trade balance, in addition to the effect of the probable moratorium.

"In Hungary domestic textiles improved and crops were favorable, although the financial situation remains difficult."

"A further recession has occurred in Egypt owing to adverse developments in cotton."

Outlook in Canada

"Prospects of a very small wheat crop in Canada have depressed conditions in the grain provinces. Conditions otherwise were practically unchanged."

The situation in Newfoundland is not satisfactory, except for active paper production.

"Trade conditions in South America improved during June, especially with the debt moratorium proposal toward the end of the month."

"Rising raw silk and rice prices in Japan have produced a certain degree of optimism. Business confidence has been increased in the Netherlands East Indies by debt moratorium prospects and the Philippines has shown a favorable reaction. Australia exchange is slightly stronger."

"No improvement occurred in Ecuador during June."

"The outlook is slightly better in Colombia, although actual business has not increased."

"The only improvement in Venezuela is a slightly stronger currency exchange."

"After slight improvement during May renewed depression occurred in the Dominican Republic last month."

"Business is very slack in Cuba without prospect of improvement."

CARTOONIST GRANTED DIVORCE IN NEVADA

New York—(AP)—Peter Arno, cartoonist, and Mrs. Florence Edith Smith were here today with respective Reno divorces and avowed they would not marry each other.

Mrs. Smith, former wife of Sydney A. Smith, New York broker, and daughter of Granville Rice, the sports writer, said:

"I never want to see a wedding ring again."

Mr. Arno, whose marriage to Lois Long, writer, was also dissolved by the courts, told his version of the fit and fiasco with Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr.

"Vanderbilt has a mania for publicity," Mr. Arno said. "He is now writing a play about Reno. He is a completely frustrated human being. His only satisfaction is when his name is plastered on front pages."

Arno denied any kissing episodes with Mrs. Vanderbilt, and said that he took Vanderbilt's threats lightly. There was no gun play.

"He said he was going to train with Jack Dempsey and fight me. I said: 'All right; I'll train with Jackie Cochrane.'"

Mrs. Smith said she wanted company on the long train ride and was glad Mr. Arno was along. "We are good friends," she added.

Charges of reckless driving in the village of Little Chute against Albert Gill was dismissed by Judge Fred V. Heinemann Tuesday morning. Peter Van Oudenhoven, county motorcycle officer, was the complainant. The offense was alleged to have occurred June 12. The case was continued several times.

Counterfeiters' Equipment

An ordinary clothes wringer was one of the essential pieces of equipment in the outfit used by the three alleged counterfeiters arrested here last week by United States secret service officials in cooperation with Appleton police. The picture shows Theodore E. Nabers, special secret service agent, exhibiting the counterfeit plates to R. J. Goggin, United States deputy marshal. The wringer and the heater used for making the counterfeit money is shown in the foreground.

Two of the men arrested here, Edgar Nauls, Medina, and Robert Armstrong, New York, pleaded guilty to the counterfeiting charge, and the third man, Irving Barth, 629 N. Mason-st., at whose home the counterfeiting outfit was found, entered a not guilty plea.

Germany Is Grateful For Agreement On Payment Of Her War Obligations

Berlin—(AP)—Signing of the Franco-American agreement in Paris whereby Germany's reparations payments will be deferred for one year was greeted with gratitude today by officials and commoners throughout the Reich.

When informed that the Hoover moratorium plan had been placed in operation, Foreign Minister Julius Curtius expressed his elation.

"It was the very highest time not only for us but for all concerned," he said. "What Andrew Mellon did is simply grandiose. I am very happy that this test of nerves is over."

Efforts to reach Chancellor Heinrich Brüning, whose emergency decrees revealed Germany's precarious state and led President Hoover to act, was fruitless. He had left his office and could not be located at his apartments.

American Ambassador Frederick M. Sackett, who played an important part in the negotiations for the Berlin end, was equally jubilant.

"It was rather a busy time for all of us and we are glad to return to normal work," he said. "The whole affair is a fine demonstration of international cooperative effort."

The public generally seemed to feel that help had arrived in the nick of time and that the reparations holiday was a "gift from heaven." Suffering from an attack of "nerves" in the fear the negotiations would be unsuccessful, the people were able to relax for the first time in two weeks with the hope that the nation would move forward to certain if slow economic recovery.

Berlin newspapers mixed expressions of appreciation toward the American representatives with statements of confidence in the future.

The Democratic Tageblatt was particularly enthusiastic. "It is our first duty to thank President Hoover for his initiative," the paper said, "and for the firmness and tenacity with which he defended his work. Our gratitude is due also to his co-workers, not the least of whom is Mr. Mellon, upon whom fell the difficult task of putting through President Hoover's plan in Paris."

Vosszeitung pointed out that never before in history had a measure affecting so many nations been put into force in such a short time. Acceptance of the plan was as stimulating as the action of international banks in helping the Reichsbank, it was said, and the recovery of German business is certain with America setting the pace.

Germania, organ of Chancellor Brüning's Centrist party, was grateful that the Americans had stuck to their guns even though they had to take several undesirable points into the bargain.

Der Tag, the only Nationalist paper to comment, was of the opinion that President Hoover had beaten a retreat on the experts' commission and predicted that France would be as contrary on the unsettled points as it felt she had been throughout the conferences.

LONDON ELATED

London—(AP)—Keen satisfaction and hope for the future were the dominant reactions today to acceptance of the Hoover moratorium by France.

Government officials, financial leaders and plain citizens—all of whom have followed the course of the negotiations with unusual interest—expressed relief that the plan had been placed in operation while recognizing that much remains to be done to place Germany on her feet.

The Times echoed the opinion of many that the war debt holiday had averted a serious crisis in Germany which might have spread throughout Europe if not the world.

The News Chronicle, remarking that the $50,000,000 advanced to Germany by American banks failed to retard the crisis, said "unless something is done to stop it the history of 1932 may be repeated with results immeasurably more serious in the world, much too shaken already to support fresh shock without disaster."

GREUNKE COMPANY IS GIVEN GRAVEL CONTRACT

Greunke Grading Company, Appleton, was awarded the contract for supplying gravel for the highway known as old state highway 54 in the town of Liberty. The stretch is about four miles long. Gravel will be taken from the Cousins pit on county trunk S near Mosquito hill. The Grunke bid was $133 a yard on the road. The bid was higher than several others, but the highway committee visited several pits and decided the Greunke company's run was the best.

That Harold Hacer got a big thrill out of winning his way back from Ford du Lac to Appleton in an airplane last weekend. Halie, Edward Goodrich and Robert Carnes walked off with swimming honors against the Ford du Lac team of the "Y" there, winning one watermelon, nine dollars worth of merchandise, and the forty minute airplane trip which brought Halie home.

GREEN BAY YOUTH DRAWS HEAVY FINE

Louis Gegare Assessed $25 Each on Three Counts—Was Shot by Officer

Louis Gegare, Green Bay, was fined $25 on each count of assault and battery, disorderly conduct and resisting an officer at an Onelda dance hall on May 10, when he appeared before Judge Fred V. Heinemann in municipal court Monday afternoon.

The charges are the outgrowth of an assault which Gegare made on John Lappen, Jr., son of Sheriff John Lappen, who was acting as dance inspector. Failure to pay fines will bring sentence of 30 days on each of the counts, the sentences to run concurrently.

Gegare was arrested with Henry Compton and William Compton, also of Green Bay, after an altercation at the Onelda dance hall. Young Lappen had had trouble with Gegare several times during the evening and the Green Bay youth attacked him while Lappen was helping park cars outside the hall. Lappen jerked him by the collar and pulled a gun. When the youth failed to obey a command to halt Lappen fired, wounding him in the arm.

Charges against Henry Compton were dismissed by district attorney Stanley A. Stidell at a previous meeting. William Compton is to answer to a disorderly conduct charge later.

WARMER WEATHER ON MENU FOR WEDNESDAY

This vicinity experienced ideal summer weather during the past 24 hours. Skies were clear and the mercury never went over the 80 degree mark.

The mercury is due for a climb by Wednesday morning, and a weatherman says in predictions for Wednesday that the sun will be shining and the sky will remain clear, he says.

Winds are shifting in the west and northwest, which accounts for the moderate temperatures registered here last night and Tuesday morning.

At noon Tuesday the mercury registered 89 degrees above zero.

ITALY DELIBERATE ON ANSWER TO VATICAN

Rome—(AP)—Italy's reply to the papal encyclical "Concerning Catholic Action" may not be prepared for several weeks, it was learned today. In official circles it is said the government will take its own time in delivering the reply, waiting to observe the full significance of the papal letter. The letter was to have been discussed at a meeting of the directors of the Fascist party, but the meeting has been postponed indefinitely.

Official Italy is described as displeased over the diplomatic negotiations with the Vatican and doubtful as to their eventual effectiveness.

ZIONISTS WATCH CONTEST BETWEEN VOLIVA, CALDWELL

Zion, Ill.—(AP)—Things were at an impasse in Wilbur Glenn Voliva's religious colony today.

Voliva, overseer of the sect's property, sold some beach property to a Chicago real estate firm. W. G. Caldwell, leader of one of the Zion factions and once named by Alexander Dowie, Zion founder, as his successor, set up a refreshment tent on the property to test the legality of the same. Caldwell claims Dowie set the land aside as perpetual public property.

So far, Caldwell has not been molested for trespass, but the Zionists are watching the contest closely.

ACCORD CLOSES CONCLAVES ON DEBT QUESTION

France Accepts President Hoover's Offer to Def-fer Payments

France will undertake to obtain concerted action by European central banks, presumably working with the Federal Reserve bank, to aid central European nations which find difficulty in balancing their budget on the basis of the plan.

She will endeavor to arrive at an agreement with the world bank whereby in case Germany declares a moratorium she will cover the guarantee fund only to the amount actually required by the bank.

She will leave to a commission of fiscal experts the question whether Germany shall respect her obligations to continue payments in kind, the decision to be in harmony with the spirit of the Hoover proposal.

Most of the newspapers hailed the agreement as the most momentous chapter in history since the signing of the Treaty of Versailles.

"Without abandoning anything the French government found itself in accord with the firm friendly negotiators, Mellon and Edge," said Le Matin.

In spite of the difficult situation created by Mr. Hoover's sudden initiative, the French negotiators succeeded in maintaining integrally the principles of the Young plan and thus leaving intact the future of reparations," said the nationalistic Journal.

Pertinax writing in Echo de Paris was the most candid critic of the accord. "It is referred to it as a compromise 'if one can so qualify a text which gives in to 80 per cent of Hoover's demands.'"

Jury Finds Crash Was Accidental

A jury at Chilton Tuesday morning decided that the death of Mrs. Cornelius De Masters, 61, Brillion, who was fatally injured at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, was due to an unavoidable accident, and that no one would be held.

Mrs. De Masters died at her home in Brillion a few minutes after the crash in which she and Mr. De Masters were riding and another machine driven by John A. Hansen, Denmark, collided on County Trunk K, two miles north of Brillion.

The scene of the accident was viewed by District Attorney Edward Eick and Coroner John Minahan of Calumet-co early Sunday evening. Members of the jury were Frank Wegert, Wilmer Schramm, Edward Schneider, William Tritzer, William Braun and Robert Biederswolf.

EXPERTS MUST CLEAR UP MANY DEBT PUZZLES

Work Will Be Technical but They Must Keep Spirit of Proposal

Washington—(AP)—The French and American governments are in agreement on the principle of President Hoover's plan for a year's holiday on intergovernmental debts.

The accord was announced last yesterday by the chief executive at the White House. It brings every important creditor nation into agreement, thus uniting the former allies of the World war in a fight for general economic relief out of the four year conflict.

The agreement was reached after 11 days of negotiations between the French government and Ambassador Edge and Secretary Mellon in Paris.

It constituted the acceptance by the United States of a formula offered by the French. It reconciled the viewpoints of the two governments between the American position put forward in the president's plan and the French counter-proposals.

In the negotiations for a settlement many extraneous points, even some considered by the United States outside its province to settle, had arisen. These were adjusted amicably to the satisfaction of each.

Each side yielded points. Details which will make the agreement finally effective will be worked out by experts. Their work will be technical in character, but they will be instructed to keep their results within the spirit of the Hoover proposal. In insisting on this instruction to the experts, the United States officials had in mind that the experts' decisions on method of procedure should not place burdens on Germany's treasury.

Weeks may be required, in the opinion of American officials, for working out of the details.

Other Questions

Meanwhile, the state department turned its attention to points raised by other countries in submitting their approvals in principle to the American plan. Belgium raised the question of its special position with regard to reparations. Rumania raised the question of its loans.

These and many other questions must be the subject of diplomatic discussions. These discussions will not be as important or delicate as those with the Paris government.

Practically all of the statements by the United States since the negotiations with Paris began, had been issued by Acting Secretary Castle of the state department.

Castle and his co-adviser to the president in the negotiations, Acting Secretary Mills of the treasury, prevailed upon the chief executive to announce the accord personally.

Greatly fatigued by the strain of the day and night work more than two weeks on the plan, the president smiled as scores of newspapermen filed into his private office at 430 P. M. yesterday.

He immediately began reading a formal statement announcing the accord. Briefly, it said all important creditor nations, with the accord with France, had agreed in principle to his proposal.

Almost simultaneously on the other side of the Atlantic, Premier Laval announced the United States had accepted the French formula. The French formula followed the lines put forward by the United States memorandum handed Premier Laval earlier yesterday by Secretary Mellon.

It provided that Germany should continue to pay the unconditional reparations under the Young plan. They will be guaranteed by bonds of the German railways in the Bank for International Settlements. Interest on suspended conditional reparations and the railway bonds will be payable in 10 annual installments beginning two years hence.

Three points, to which the United States declined to be a party on the grounds they were outside its province, were next listed as French "observations."

They provided that central banks would assist with credits central European countries affected by the postponement. This plan was put forward after America objected to $25,000,000 being set aside from unconditional payments funds for re-lending to Germany for the central European countries.

France is to effect an arrangement with the Bank for International settlements fund in the event Germany declares a moratorium. The question of deliveries in kind, the last point to be cleared up, was settled to comply with the American contention, that it be referred to the experts to be worked out in accordance with the spirit of the president's plan. France had formerly desired the experts to have unlimited powers.

France also reserved the right to ask Germany for "indispensable assurances" that the suspended payments would be used exclusively for economic purposes.

OIL MAGNATE HITS BACK IN KANSAS FIGHT

Doherty Charges Efforts Made to Force Cities Service to Cut Rates

Topeka, Kan.—(AP)—Denunciation by Henry L. Doherty of an attempt to force the Cities Service company to reduce gas rates in Kansas was studied by Gov. Harry Woodring here today.

The New York utilities magnate, in a telegram to the governor yesterday, placed on the Kansas City Star responsibility for an order issued out warning and without cause, issued by the Kansas Banking department withdrawing its approval from all Cities Service curb stock except its first preferred, and barring such stock from further sale in Kansas. Both Woodring and executives of the Star declined to comment immediately.

The banking department temporarily has been restrained by the Shawnee-co. Kansas district court from putting into effect its order barring sale of the Doherty securities in the state. A hearing is set for July 13 in Topeka.

Doherty described as "nothing less than vicious" the action "in having your banking department issue without warning and without cause, and immediately after and undoubtedly because we had failed to comply with your demand for a reduction in gas rates, the orders prohibiting the sale of Cities Service securities."

Doherty said Governor Woodring had "in some ways been persecutory and arbitrary." He announced that he had wired Postmaster General Brown urging that the Star be barred from the mails and Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce, calling attention to what he called Governor Woodring's threat to throw certain Cities Service subsidiaries into receivership.

Governor Woodring recently asked the Cities Service company to reduce its rate from 40 cents for 1,000 cubic feet of gas to 30 cents. He announced last week that the negotiations had failed.

In making his request, the governor said other commodities had been reduced and that, in his opinion, lower production and distribution costs could be passed on to the consumers.

Roland Boynton, attorney general, announced that he had asked Charles Steiger, attorney for the Public Service commission, for information on the relationship between the Cities Service Pipe Line company and the distributing companies.

Mr. Boynton said a state law provided for appointment of a receiver for corporations which perverted or abused their corporate privileges.

New York's increase during the same period was 1,361,869, or from 5,620,048 to 6,981,917, while Chicago had added 674,733 since 1920.

Berlin was credited with 4,013,588 in 1925 against the present day estimate of 4,296,000.

Greater New York increased 600,000 in the last five years, but virtually all of this growth was in the suburbs outside the fortifications.

Man Takes Own Life With Rifle

Paul Christen, 49, 314 E. Pacific-st, walked into a bedroom of his home about 1:45 Monday afternoon and shot himself in the head with a 22 calibre rifle. He was found by his wife, who heard the body fall to the floor. A doctor was called and the injured man taken to the hospital. He died about 3 o'clock. Police were informed, but there will be no inquest.

Survivors are the widow; one daughter, Viola; seven sons, Lawrence, Clarence, Harold, Kenneth, Wilbert, Chester and Shirley; and one sister, Mrs. Joseph Koehn, Hortonville. Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Wichmann Funeral home, with the Rev. D. E. Bosserman in charge. Burial will be in the Evangelical Lutheran cemetery at Kaukauna.

COUNCIL WILL AWARD PAVING, SEWER JOBS

Contracts for the paving of W. Washington-st and Anna-st and the installation of a sewer on the former street are to be awarded at a special meeting of the common council called for 5 o'clock this afternoon. The call also includes the matter of re-surfacing the Onelda-st hill.

All discussions heretofore on the resurfacing of S. Onelda-st has concerned only that section from McKinney-st to Calumet-st. This afternoon the addition of the hill, from South River-st to McKinney-st, will be considered.

Waivers from the property owners on W. Washington-st and Anna-st make it unnecessary to assess benefits and damages, so the work can proceed as soon as the contract is awarded.

The Messrs Margaret Goetz, Appleton, and Messrs Michka, Kaukauna, have returned from a three weeks' vacation trip through the west. While at Everett, Wash., they visited Mr. and Mrs. John Michka, and at Portland they visited the Deitman family, formerly of Kaukauna.

An X-ray machine which shows organs of the body in three dimensions has been developed at the University of California.

LARGEST CITIES CONTINUE RACE IN POPULATION

New York Behind London Proper but Ahead in Metropolitan District

New York—(AP)—The population race of the world's great cities continues at a staggering pace.

London, which has just counted its metropolitan population at more than 8,000,000 retains its world lead with New York not far behind for the city proper, although far ahead on the basis of its own metropolitan area.

Berlin remains in third place; Chicago is fourth, and Paris fifth, although the metropolitan population of the French capital is larger than that of Chicago.

The five leading cities on the basis of new census figures are:

Greater London 8,292,818.
New York City 6,981,915.
Berlin 4,296,000.
Chicago 3,276,433.
Paris (within walls) 2,971,039.

While the cities themselves have added hundreds of thousands of inhabitants in the last decade, even more startling is the growth of the metropolitan areas. For instance, Chicago suburbs are growing at a rate far higher than that of the city proper.

Paris within the walls counts only 2,871,039, but the population outside of the fortifications numbers 3,915,425, or a total of 4,887,454 for the metropolitan district.

New York city, restricted to the population of the five boroughs of Manhattan, Queens, Brooklyn, Richmond and the Bronx, trembled on the verge of 7,000,000 in the 1930 count. The New York metropolitan area, however, including portions of New Jersey and Connecticut and corresponding more nearly to what is known as Greater London, numbers 11,000,000 souls.

THE PROGRESSIVE MARTYR

There are many sources that breed the taint with which the stream of justice, from time to time, becomes infected.

The courts of Wisconsin are charged by law with the duty of keeping that stream clean.

In order to accomplish that end it becomes necessary for them to prohibit from practice or otherwise discipline such lawyers as are proven dishonest, unscrupulous or guilty of unfair or sharp practices, what is called unprofessional conduct, in their tactics or relations with those who trust them, and particularly in exacting high or exorbitant fees from those who can ill afford to pay.

In the last few years 10 or 12 lawyers have been disbarred for various periods or otherwise punished for disloyalty to their own clients.

When the legislature met in January it became evident that a Milwaukee lawyer who was ordered by the supreme court to quit practice until he convinced that court of a change of heart toward his obligations and particularly in the methods he employed, was in such high favor with the Progressives, for whom he had actively campaigned in the last primary, that unless the supreme court saw fit to act favorably upon his petition for reinstatement, an attempt would be made to override its authority.

Those in political life are often unable to correctly measure the mental attitude of courts because the latter make a point of deciding matters solely upon evidence and without regard to the popularity of their decisions or whom they affect, while the former are so often actuated by motives that might be described as less worthy.

Some legislators appeared to think that a threat of legislative action would weaken the usual judicial tendency of deciding this particular lawyer's petition on its merits. It is clear now, of course—even to them—that they made a blunder in failing to reckon with the court's constant stand for the right as it is given it to see the right.

The supreme court of Wisconsin is true to its traditions and high ideals. It may go down but its flag will still be flying; it may be trampled upon or toppled over but its last action will be a continuation of the battle for decency in judicial practices. When it supinely submits to political dictation the end of order has come.

Granted—which is extremely doubtful—that the legislature possesses the authority it seeks to invoke, of returning this lawyer to practice despite the court's ruling, it has made a sickly, an anaemic use of its power, and in favor of one of the principal stump speakers for the Progressives last fall. The combination smacks disgracefully of politics and of the brand that even Tammany has long since discarded and is now called Thompsonian.

Although the executive is only required by law to state his reasons upon vetoing a bill Governor LaFollette wrote a long and labored statement to support his signature of this measure, as though it needed some excuse.

He would not say this lawyer had been unjustly disbarred. He could not approve, but rather disapproved of the sniping this lawyer has done at the justices of the supreme court and the three circuit judges who condemned his conduct, but he believes the legislature has authority to force into practice before courts anyone it likes and that the courts have no power to protect their own dignity nor the people who submit their troubles to them for decision. The governor thinks the legislature can open the doors to the Harry Daughertys and Albert Falls—as legislators have when they were of the right political faith—and the court's arms are tied even to prevent the plundering of innocent people before their very eyes. The governor would not say that he approved the measure but said in effect that he could not disapprove it distinctly enough to veto it.

His message sounds like the speech that must have been made by a certain king in Judea when he washed his hands off a silver platter some twenty centuries ago. It is a faithful portrayal of those lines:

"I know the right,
And I uphold it too,
Condemn the wrong—
And still the wrong pursue."
Much better would it have been for the honor of old Wisconsin had the wrist that signed such a measure paralyzed as it reached for the pen.

SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE—

"We cannot improve the condition of the people or reform human nature by intruding the nation into the affairs of the states."

No, that was not written by Alfred E. Smith, neither was it written by John J. Raskob.

And your next guess is wrong too. It hasn't any reference to the "noble experiment." It wasn't meant for the Volstead act.

The strange thing about it is that it was written by rather a pronounced dry, who, when he was president of the United States, refrained from attempting to apply that principle to the Eighteenth amendment.

Calvin Coolidge is the author and he is expressing an opinion concerning the control of public utilities.

He has written in a few words a remarkably sound doctrine.

Odd, isn't it, that these sound doctrines are all toggled up in Sunday finery to properly support certain governmental policies but seem to be forgotten when prohibition is mentioned? They aren't sound enough to overcome the fear of our public officials as they look towards a building at Washington that houses the representatives of a self-constituted board of public morals.

Consistency may be a jewel but jewelry isn't popular in politics.

UNYIELDING

France is finding out President Hoover.

It is learning what Republicans and Democrats, wets and Progressives, have already discovered, that the President, after making up his mind, will hang onto a position in the most dogged of unyielding attitudes, an excellent method when one is sure that he is right.

As to the international moratorium the President's appraisal of the situation was so clear and seemingly trustworthy, the generosity of this nation so great, that his stubbornness in persisting on his course could never be described as a mere sticking for terms but rather as a firmness in insisting that others do their share.

Opinions Of Others

IF YOU KILL THE GOOSE, YOU'RE DONE
About half the state legislatures in session have before them proposed measures to increase gasoline taxes. Arkansas, drought-stricken, hard-hit for revenues, considers boosting its six-cent gas tax to eight cents. The average for the country, now about four cents, would become nearly five, if all the bills pass. Better judgment probably will prevail.

Several influences continually operate to heap higher burdens upon motorists. The railroad keeps up a lament that the motors are grabbing their business and should be handicapped by added taxes. Automobile owners, submitting to the gasoline tax because of its efficacy in extending the good roads, appear to pay and like it. Accordingly, this form of taxation appears a painless method of extracting revenues, and there is the constant temptation to yield to the demand for automobile owners to take a larger share of tax burdens.

Under conditions there is need for a large degree of common sense and a little elementary knowledge of economic consequences. No other agency is so generally depended upon as the automobile industry, to restore prosperity. But its means of effecting this have many applications. The transport of goods by motor trucks, the use of cars in pleasure riding and touring, the importance of the automobile in regular business transportation, all are factors enabling the motor industry to bring back and maintain normal business conditions. And every one of these is sure to be seriously affected by severe taxation.

There was wholesome primary instruction in economics in that good old Mother Goose yarn of what happened to the goose that laid the golden egg.—Detroit News.

LOVE LETTERS

There is no denying that love letters are among the most popular forms of public reading matter, and more than one sober-minded newspaper reader will turn away from the important news of the day if challenged in an adjoining column by a plaintive billet-doux used as evidence in the latest heart-balm action.

A London newspaper has recently capitalized on this world-wide love of love letters by offering a prize of $500 for the best submitted to it. Many thousands were received, representing all sorts of sentimental tastes and viewpoints toward the grand passion.

"From the deluge it finally selected one that seems best to express the universal emotion of the lover. It was written by a woman, and even in cold newspaper type has eloquence, fineness, beauty of thought and deep sincerity, something of the enduring poetical quality, in fact, of the famous letters that passed between Robert Browning and Elizabeth Barrett."

"It is not apparent whether the motive of this London newspaper was to encourage the writing of love letters or to discourage it, for the majority proved to be of the 'mushy' sort that makes the irreverent cynic. Some of them, indeed, were penned by girls with no other thought than effluence."

"Dorothy Dix would, no doubt, assure us that you can not tell a lover by his love letters. None the less, those of us with old-fashioned notions will be glad of this renewed evidence that there are still bundles of old letters tied with blue ribbon stored away in many attics.—Albany Press.

IF THE firecrackers, the week-end drivers, the sun or the lakes didn't get you, probably by this time you're pretty well over your swell week-end. . . . we took one peek at the front page of one newspaper and had it put away. . . . there were 500 fatalities of one kind or another. . . . anyway, if you're kicking about sunburn, mosquito bites and such, just look what happened to some other people. . . .

Why Duffers Shoot Themselves

And that brings to mind the startling shot played by Gene Sarazen (who didn't fare so well in the Open) while he was playing the Ryder Cup matches.

On the fourth hole, Gene drove his ball into a refreshment stand. Mentally, his British opponent probably figured the hole as good as won.

Gene called for his niblic, walked into the refreshment stand and calmly played the ball off the wooden floor, through a window to the green where it stopped just eight feet from the cup.

Well, maybe the divorce racket is the business they've been looking for to revive prosperity.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

ON GOING OUT

The women folks look up at me
And cry: "You are not fit to see!
That coat needs brushing and your tie
Is old and worn and all awry.
And very shabby is your hat;
Surely you won't go out like that!"

They're fretted by the speck of dirt
Which seems to settle on my shirt,
And should the collar band be worn
Or show a spot that's frayed and torn,
They'll give the ultimatum flat:
"Now you're not going out like that!"

How easily they dust the dust
And trim the muffler round my throat!
How lightly they apply the touch
Of neatness which I need so much.
That outwardly at least I'll be
What women folks call "fit to see."

Lord, when it comes my time to die,
Let not my spirit be awry.
Grant me the time the while I live
To ask forgiveness and forgive,
That this old soul of mine may be
On its arrival: "fit to see!"

Where every little bluish shows
And say: "This bit of wrong repair!
Brush off those dusty signs of care!"
And with the same old friendly pat,
Make sure I don't go out like that!

MODERN CANNERS ARE EXCEEDINGLY CANNY

From the second edition of McCollum and Simmonds' "Food, Nutrition and Health," a valuable little book published by the authors at Baltimore, I quote this paragraph on Preservation of Vitamin C:

"Kohman and Eddy have recently discovered a method of canning fruits and vegetables so as to preserve their anti-scorbutic properties. The vitamin C is destroyed more rapidly by oxidation (in contact with air) than it is by the high temperatures.

The juices of fruits and vegetables contain considerable dissolved oxygen. The latter and advice regarding a streptococcus hemolyticus throat. (Mrs. A. C. E.) Answer—It is a bad throat and I advise you to consult a physician.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE men who paddled were real strong. Their boat went skimming right along. The water was real quiet and the trip was quite a thrill. Said Scout, "When we reach the spring, I really think the proper thing would be for us to help you with the jugs you're going to fill."

One of the men said, "Good for you! That's just what we will tell you. The spring is such a pretty place you'll like it very much. There you can drink of water clear and pure so there's no cause for fear. It comes from far down in the ground. It's chilly to the touch."

They reached the spring and everyone jumped out. The Tynmites thought it fun. "All right," exclaimed one of the men. "Each person haul a jug. They look real heavy, but they're not. Just roll them to the water spot. The Dukes shortly found that they were rather hard to lug."

But soon the loading task was over and they were in the boat once more. The return trip was slower 'cause the boat was heavy now. Real soon up the shore it ran and there stood Mister Travel Man. The Tynmites thanked the boatmen and said "good-by" with a bow.

"Tyn hump!" shouted Clowry. "Gee, won't someone procure food for me?" "You bet," replied the Travel Man. "Come on, you little scamp. I'll take you where you'll get your fill of food and you can eat until you can't eat any more. We're going to a native camp."

They reached the camp and there they found a fire was burning on the ground. Across the blaze an iron rod stretched. Crick Coppy, "This is sick. Gee, isn't that a pretty sight. The odor brings an appetite. That's a great big chunk of meat that's hanging on that stick."

(The Tynmites hear some native music in the next story.)

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—When President Hoover named Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas a member of the American delegation to the London naval arms conference, he started something.

For the senator was bitten by the travel bug then and there, so much so that he had restless feet ever since.

He had not been back from London very long before he set sail for Samoa with Senator Bingham of Connecticut and two members of the house to study conditions there. And now he is making plans to leave the latter part of this month with two other senators for an extended trip to Alaska.

He hardly could resist the temptation to go to Alaska. For a long time he has made a study of problems there, and since this trip is to be primarily an inspection of wild life resources, it appealed especially to him.

Ardent Conservationist
The Arkansas senator is an ardent conservationist. Outdoor life always appealed to him. Even on his trip to London, where he was to concern himself about the serious business of treaty making, he included in his luggage one or two of his favorite guns in the hope that he could find time for a little grouse shooting.

His two companions on the Alaskan jaunt—Senators Walcott of Connecticut and Norbeck of South Dakota—are members of the senate's special committee on wild life resources.

Their purpose in making the trip is to observe closely the effect of regulations promulgated recently. They, too, are zealous conservationists, particularly Walcott, who, as chairman of the senate committee, will head the group.

With the possible exception of Senator Haves of Missouri, Walcott's attachment for the outdoors surpasses that of any other man in the senate.

Before he came to the senate, he was head of the game and fish commission in his state for many years. He is credited with having done perhaps more for conservation in Connecticut than any other man.

Fisherman of Fame
His skill as a salmon fisherman is known far and wide, and he has made frequent visits to the coast of Newfoundland in his quest. He holds membership in numerous gun clubs in the south, where he goes to shoot duck.

At his home in Litchfield Hills near Norfolk, Conn., he owns a huge lake which serves as a refuge every year for duck on their flights north and south.

In addition, he has built up quite a reputation as an explorer. Senator Norbeck, "a well drilled by occupation," as he describes himself, ranks with the others as a conservationist. He is ever ready to lend his support for conservation measures in the senate, whatever be their nature.

LYOFF'S U. S. STATEMENT

On July 7, 1917, Prince Lvov, Russian premier and minister of the interior, made a public statement at Petrograd for the information of America.

Discussing Russo-American and Russian world relations, Lvov said: "For decades of darkness and oppression America has been our ideal of freedom and intellectual and material development; rather, not our ideal, for we had considered it unattainable, but a remote fairy tale of happiness. Now we have in one jump reached America's condition of freedom.

There remains the slower but not impossible task to undertake her in education, material progress, culture and respect for order.

"We are on the right track. The spirit of new Russia is closely akin to the immortal spirit of free America, and where the spirit is, work follows. That means Russia's salvation. . . . I am convinced that our revolution is no mere domestic affair, but a stage in the new world movement toward liberty, equality, fraternity—perhaps the greatest stage in the world's history."

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Boners by the press are a constant source of merriment to some readers easily tickled.

A typographical error, giving a ludicrous twist to an otherwise serious item, put them in stitches.

Such, for an instance, as the line: "He was gored by an infatuated bull."

Or maybe it is some writer's unfortunate slip, such as the following gem:

"Among the first to enter was Mrs. Clara Adams of Tannersville, Pa., lone woman passenger. Slowly her nose was turned around to face in a southeasterly direction and away from the hangar doors. Then, like some strange beast, she crawled along the grass."

New Yorkers guffaw over news breaks like that. Book publishers, ever in search of humor, have launched collections of them this spring. One volume is "Ho Hum," from which the foregoing tidbits were culled.

Nomenclature
Ruth Nichols' plane, in which she hopes to hop the Atlantic to Europe, perhaps before this appears, is named "Akita" (pronounced Ah-kee-tah).

It was announced as a very from the Dakota Indian tongue, meaning "to search, discover or explore." That was so appropriate that we couldn't help wondering where Miss Nichols, a Quakeress born and reared in Rye, N. Y., learned so much about the Dakota Indian language. Miss Nichols wanted to give her plane a true American name, so she asked the Museum of the American Indian to supply it. They dug up "Akita" out of their dictionaries.

Harlem Cellar
Regardless of the weather, Harlem stays the hottest night life center.

Calling a party of whooping friends the other dark and rainy morning, we stumbled into the Clam House, an old timer.

The single room was as rammed, smoky and noisy as ever. Most of the noise as usual was made by Gladys, the hefty mannish-bobbed off-color-singer, whose complexions is matched by the Tuxedo-like costume she wears.

It did seem as though the regulars of last year were absent, their tables taken by strangers. Maybe the old sophisticates became too jaded even for the low lyrics of the Clam House.

Personally, what we would prefer to see is a Broadway celebrity watching a night club impersonation of himself. They say it happens now and then, usually sending the mimic to his dressing room, very red in the face.

If the subject of the impersonation wants to be downright cruel he works up such loud applause that the flustered initiator is forced to repeat his performance.

If Americans have low taste, as one lecturer claims, it's probably because men like well-stocked cellars and women the bargain basements.

"All God's Chillun Got Wings," takes on something more than a spiritual significance in these days of bustling aviation activity.

The only difference between a golfer and the new balloon ball is that it is the former who goes up in the air.

SETTLE PLANS FOR NEW CHURCH HERE THIS WEEK

Congregation of First English Lutheran Church Meets Friday

Building plans for the new First English Lutheran church will be settled this week at a meeting of the congregation to be held Friday. The Rev. F. C. Reuter is attending the funeral of his brother in Sandusky, Ohio which necessitated the postponement of the congregational meeting from Monday to Friday.

The Rev. E. L. Ziesemer, pastor of the Mount Olive church, and the Rev. F. M. Brandt of St. Elizabeth hospital, according to Marshall Graff, representative of the University of Wisconsin Extension division under whose auspices the course has been arranged. Weekly sessions are being held at the hospital.

Twenty-seven doctors have enrolled for a similar course at Green Bay and 14 at Marinette. The courses in the three cities will continue until Sept. 5.

RISKE CHARGED WITH MURDER IN POISON DEATHS

Suitor of Dead Man's Wife Held in Waupaca County Jail

about one-tenth of a grain of strychnine in every 100 grams of stomach. This, according to Dr. Pfeiffer, is a heavy dose. He estimated that the poison had been taken by the men from 10 to 30 minutes before they became ill.

That he sent bottles of liquor found around the Douglas farm to a state expert for analysis was reported by Sheriff Arthur Steenbock. The report from the expert stated that a half pint bottle contained strychnine although the other six or seven bottles did not.

Refused Drink

There were two witnesses present at the dance on the fatal evening who did not drink with Kopitzke upon his invitation. They were Henry Rohloff and Norman Bucholtz. The former agreed to take a drink, but when he got outside he was called to his brother's car. Bucholtz turned down Kopitzke.

Three affidavits, signed by Mrs. Hoffman, were read to the jury by the court. The first, dated June 23, indicated that the couple was married nine years ago, and that they had been getting alone fine lately. Another, signed June 27, stated that she worked beside Riske at the Douglas cannery factory.

It also revealed that Riske had asked her about getting a divorce, and that he had offered her $50 to pay for such a proceedings. Visits that Riske made at Mrs. Hoffman's home, and of trips to nearby communities were revealed. The last affidavit, also under date of June 27, said that Riske was always bothering her and that he always wanted to make dates with her.

Remember Note

Mrs. Minnie Hilde recalled an occasion when Mrs. Hoffman's boy brought a note to her house for Riske. She added that her mother had said there were other such notes. She said that Riske was shy and quiet since the fatal poisoning.

Other fragments of Riske's conversation immediately following the poisoning were pieced together by other witnesses, indicating that Riske probably was worried. While he was still at the barn that night, he told Miss Rashada Monson, whom he had escorted to the dance, that they should get away from there as rapidly as possible. This remark was overheard by Mrs. Deshler Reed of Royalton.

Herbert Stillman, town of Mukwa, who lives near the dance hall, described Riske's actions when he entered the home to put in a telephone call. When Stillman asked what was wrong, Riske answered that there were "a couple of guys who cashed in at the barn dance." He said he thought they lived at Bloomfield, according to Stillman's testimony. Mrs. Anna Loss, mother-in-law of Stillman, verified Stillman's testimony.

When Stillman suggested that the men must have come in possession of some bad liquor, Riske said he did not think so, as they were not drinking men, the former declared.

Strychnine in House

Charles Specht, father-in-law of Hilde, who also occupies the same house as Riske, identified a bottle of strychnine in the coroner's possession as one he had purchased about a year ago to kill rats and mice. He said the bottle would have been accessible to any one around the house, as he used to keep it in a cupboard, or occasionally in a clock. Specht also said he knew that Mrs. Hoffman had sent occasional notes to his home addressed to Riske.

Riske Monday morning waived his constitutional rights to remain silent and took the stand. He denied many statements made by other witnesses.

When news of Mrs. Hoffman's drowning reached authorities Sunday, they were convinced more than ever that their investigations had been in the right direction. Mrs. Hoffman, who had been subjected to a grilling by the district attorney Saturday, was to be one of the principal witnesses at the inquest yesterday.

Although death was laid to drowning, Dr. F. J. Pfeiffer, New London, said that indications pointed to the possibility that the woman might have taken poison herself before leaping into the Wolf river.

The affair has made orphans of 8 children. Kopitzke, a widower, was the father of five children, and Hoffmann had three children. Riske also is a widower and has three children.

CHEN'S ARMY QUILTS KWANGTUNG BORDER

May Be Sent to Hunan Province to Meet Attack of Insurgents

HongKong (AP)—The Withdrawal of General Chen Ming-Shu's nine-teenth army from the border of Kwangtung province, where its presence had caused the new Canton government some apprehension, was confirmed today.

One of General Chen's regiments was reported to have deserted and joined the Canton forces. It appeared likely that General Chen's army would be sent from the Kwangtung-Kiangsi border into Hunan province to meet a threatened advance of Kwangsi province insurgents into what nominally is Nationalist territory.

The exact position of General Chen and his army toward the Nationalist government and its rival, the new Canton regime, still remained obscure.

Chen, who was the Nationalist governor of Canton when the recent anti-Nanking movement there forced him to leave, finally took command of his nineteenth army and moved into Kiangsi province, announcing he would remain loyal to the Nationalists, but would not attack the Cantonese. The army ostensibly set out to fight reds and bandits in Kiangsi, but soon was on its way to the border of Kwangtung, which is Canton territory.

Indications today were that Chen's army was being sent to fight the Kwangsi insurgents rather than Cantonese troops.

Canton reports insisted, however, that General Chen was remaining neutral and that Chiang Kai-shek, president of the Nationalist government and commander-in-chief of its military forces, was threatening to disarm the nineteenth army.

THOUSANDS OF FISH DIE IN WHITE LAKE

Thousands of dead fish, ranging in size from a fraction of a pound to 16 pounds, are floating on the surface of White Lake in the town of Royalton, three miles north of Weyauwega, according to word received here. It is believed that lack of oxygen in the water, brought about by the hot spell of last week caused the fish to die in such large numbers. Edward Fenske has been hired by the town of Royalton to dig trenches on the shore and bury the fish.

The Art of Reproduction

Authentic reproduction of furniture masterpieces is an art of far greater consequence than might ordinarily be supposed. To be authentic, a reproduction must reflect the specific characteristics of its original. It must conform to its proportions, its design, and its individuality. It must honor and preserve the artistry of its originator.

The silent and majestic grace of revived art is impressive. Its eminence weaves a spell. It guides us along paths of former splendor, of triumphs and achievements. Again we feel the gaiety of the Renaissance, the resoluteness of the Reformation, the sturdiness of Colonial times. The best of the past returns to charm an appreciative present.

Art work by Harold Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Young, 629 Oneida-st., is included in the honor gallery of student work at the Layton Art gallery, Milwaukee. Mr. Young, who has just finished his second year at the Layton Art school, is spending the summer with his parents.

A still life study in water color done by Mr. Young is on exhibit in the Layton Art gallery, while a violin played design is displayed in the studios of the Layton Art school.

The work exhibited in both galleries represents the best work done by students in the professional art courses of teacher training, advertising design, industrial design, illustration, sculpture and painting.

Mr. Young was graduated from Appleton high school in June, 1929.

WARN WOMEN AGAINST SWEEPER REPAIRMEN

Service men claiming to represent the Bissell Carpet Sweeper company of Grand Rapids, Mich., have approached housewives in various sections of the midwest, offering to rebuild or repair their carpet sweepers for $5 or $8, according to word received here by the Appleton chamber of commerce from the National Better Business bureau.

The Bissell company states that it employs no traveling repair or service men or women, and no traveling inspectors. Complaints have been received that repair work performed by the men has been unsatisfactory, parts were not replaced, sweepers often were not returned, and prices were exorbitant.

BADGER BRIEFS

Milwaukee —(P)— The case of Charles J. Fox, theatre operator accused of aiding embezzlements made by an employee of the National Bank of Commerce, has been postponed until fall. The federal trial jury has been excused until July 15. Fox was convicted last year but won a new trial on appeal.

Escanaba, Mich. —(P)— Injuries suffered in a fall from a barn scaffold at St. Nicholas, yesterday resulted in the death of Emil Derouin, 40.

Manitowoc —(P)— Reports from Lansing, Mich., today indicated the medical ability of Capt. T. P. McKasters of a 25th Marquette cavalry was not to be scoffed at. A nine-month-old baby, daughter of a Lansing minister, broke its leg while aboard the boat bound from Manitowoc to Ludington. The captain set the broken bone. A physician, who met the boat at the Michigan port, examined the setting and said nothing more could be done.

Gold Star Mother Finds Son A German War Veteran

BY MINOTT SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer

Paris—Grieving for one son lost in the war, Mrs. Emilie Kennerly, Gold Star Mother of Germantown, Pa., has now been made happy by finding another, whom she had not seen for 33 years. She came here with a pilgrimage of war mothers, and thus the loss of her American boy soldier has made possible her reunion with her German boy soldier.

In her old age, with white hair but still vigorous, the blissfulness of motherhood has been restored to Mrs. Kennerly by her visit in Germany with her first son, Herman Weidmuller, 35, who served four years in the Kaiser's army. While Herman was still a baby, his mother left him with relatives and went to Philadelphia, where she became Mrs. Kennedy. A son born by the second marriage, John Kennedy, died at sea on his way to France with the United States Army.

The scene of the meeting of mother and son, who had to be brought together because they did not recognize each other, was one of the most joyfully touching that has marked the Gold Star pilgrimages. Herman Weidmuller came from Lanzau, Germany, and was on the dock at Cherbourg when his mother arrived. He climbed aboard the ship holding a photograph which his mother had sent him, and scanned face after face trying to catch the resemblance. Officials guided him until he saw Mrs. Kennedy, anxiously waving a handkerchief and holding a photograph which he had sent her.

A Hope Fulfilled
With a cry of "Mutter!" he folded her in his strong arms. For a long time mother and son remained clasped, pausing now and then to gaze into each other's eyes.

Mrs. Kennedy had looked forward for just such a meeting upon her arrival, but she had not been informed that Herman was there.

Since members of this pilgrimage all lost their sons at sea, they had no graves of their own to visit, so plans were quickly made, through special permission, for Mrs. Kennedy to accompany her son to Bavaria for a visit.

"We don't hardly know each other, but we have lots to talk about," she explained. Herman went with his mother to her hotel and was at her side as much as possible. When she had to join the other mothers in the ceremony of laying a wreath at the tomb of the French Unknown Soldier, Weidmuller discreetly remained at the hotel waiting. But he went with her to other functions she attended.

Fought on Three Fronts
"I had a very strange feeling when I first saw my mother," he said. "I was intensely nervous, which I am sure was due to the happiness that had come to me. It is like not having a mother for 32 years, and then having a real one come to life."

"I did not know my half brother, John Kennedy, was in the war until my mother wrote me in 1920 of his fate. He was in the American infantry, and I in the German infantry."

"For my part, I saw plenty of war. I was a sergeant in the 15th Bavarian Infantry and fought on the French, Roumanian and Russian fronts. Fortunately I was never wounded."

In her excitement with her son, Mrs. Kennedy almost forgets her English, for he only speaks German. They have been getting acquainted in Landshut, where Herman works for the German State Railways. Mrs. Kennedy will return to America with her group.

Don't Allow Relative To Spoil Child

BY ANGELO PATRI

The circus had come to town and Uncle Jack had taken Bobbie to see the show. They had started early and stayed late so that when Bobbie reached home he was too weary to lift his feet.

"Did you have a good time, dear?" "I want to go to bed."

"Don't you want anything to eat?" "No, I want to go to bed."

Uncle Jack was a bright and cheery. He had a good time looking at the animals and the clowns. The bareback riders had been a huge success.

"We had a fine day," said he. "Bobbie had a real treat. For once in his life he did just what he liked. He ate what he liked, he saw what he liked, he had as much of everything as he liked. Yes sir, he had a real treat."

Mother looked anxious. "I hope that you didn't let him eat what wasn't good for him, Jack. His stomach is easily upset."

"I let him eat just what he wanted."

"But he doesn't know what he ought to eat, nor how much. He is only a little boy and if you allowed him to make himself ill you ought to be ashamed of yourself."

"There you go. The minute a child does what he pleases the lot of you are on his back. As if a little boy couldn't hold a few sacks of peanuts and some pink lemonade and a few pieces of candy. We ate them, didn't we?"

"Not as much as we wanted, and not everything."

"Well, he didn't eat everything. He didn't want any hamburgers because he had just had some hot dogs. But he liked the popcorn first rate."

That night Bobbie was very sick. All that went down had to come up and the process was distressing for Bobbie and everybody else.

"You made him sick you ought to have to nurse him and take care of him until he is himself again. If you had to bring up a child like Bobbie you would be a little careful."

"There you go. I try to give the child a treat. Give him a good time."

The Story of Sue

MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

WONDERINGLY, Sue took the proffered beaded coin purse. Something green was wadded into a small ball on the inside. She pulled it out and opened it wide. It was a five-dollar bill.

"Oh, now I remember....I got a check cashed and I put half of it in here to make sure I had something in reserve....Oh, how glad I am! Now I can pay your bill and leave!"

She picked up the 50-cent piece that had served as a good luck coin for so long, put it back in the bag along with her compact and lipstick and other articles, and handed the cashier the bill. "My dinner was 59 cents."

"Well, you were caught that time, all right, young lady. You didn't think I would examine your pocket-book. But I took you at your word. Next time maybe you won't try to pull anything slick." The manager had a greasy voice and greasy face, and they seemed to slide together while he talked.

"I didn't know I had that money. If you think I would have tried to cheat you and had this embarrassing experience, you certainly are wrong," Sue answered. "At least I've learned where not to eat."

"Just try to come back here again. We'll collect in advance."

Smarting under the humiliation Sue walked out of the tea room. It was raining and the air had grown colder. The moon and stars were far, far away tonight. Maybe there were students in the deep blue velvet of a western sky that drifted across the magic of a distant ocean. But she wouldn't think of that. Not for a second. There was something wrong. Jack wasn't having a good time while she struggled against everything and everyone. He was looking after his business affairs so he could come back on the very first train.

She reached home, not knowing if the other tenant from the house had followed her or not.

The room which she and Sarah occupied was dark and rather damp. Sue pulled the chains in all the lamps, closed the windows and turned on the water in the shower. She wanted to go to sleep, and wake-up in the morning at home, with the sun making a checkered golden pattern on the lawn, and knowing that she would see Jack in just a little while.

The scrap of pink silk and lace that was a brassiere went tumbling to the floor. Steps that matched were tossed in a crumpled heap on the bed. One chiffon stocking draped itself across the back of a chair and the other missed and lay on the rug. Then a black pump spun through the air and landed right-side up, while another one turned a dizzy somersault and upset.

Sue let the warm water come and then turned it until it grew icy cold, as it drove a thousand sharp, prickly points against her firm white flesh. Colder and colder and colder. She wanted it to make her numb, so she wouldn't think. She wanted it to hurt. Then she turned off the light and slipped between the cool sheets.

But she couldn't sleep. She started to think about Sarah and Ted. Everything had seemed wrong for them. Now suddenly it was right. It had been that way, too, with Grace Metcalf and Jimmy. Harry and Corinne, too, had solved their problems. Only for herself the tangles went on and on and on. But nothing had happened, nothing, nothing at all, Sue told herself. But it didn't help.

She turned pretty soon, so she faced the door. She wanted Sarah to come home, yet she didn't want her to come. There was a very light knock on the door suddenly and a white envelope was slipped under it.

NEXT: Sue's letter. (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY ANNEBELLE WORTHINGTON

Of course you'll want one of the new Vionnet blouses.

Style No. 3167 is designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 38 requires 2 1/2 yards 39-inch.

SHINY NOSES AND PEELING MAY BE AVOIDED

BY ALICIA HART

It is amazing how summer sunshine and wind bring out the shiny noses.

Just try to keep your nose from getting more sunburned than the rest of your face. You must take precautions from the first exposure to old Sol or you'll have a nose that is ready to peel when the rest of you isn't even a nut-brown.

The shiny noses often are the same ones that bother in the winter time. There really seems to be no compensation in this business of having been born with a trouble-some nose. Yet, maybe there is. For taking care of it really teaches you what can be done by daily routine.

Don't Worry About Shape

Improve the texture of the skin on your nose and you improve all. The shape of your nose shouldn't bother you because there are as many individual tastes in just what makes an artistic and pretty nose as there are in whether blue or brown eyes are the nicest.

But there is unanimity in thinking that the texture of your nose's skin should be fine and well cared for. If your nose shines, chances are that the skin is over-oiled. It may even be added to blackheads. The way to coax it over its shininess is to rid it of both blemishes.

Thorough washing is the first and best remedy. Use a good soap, a bland one but one that lathers well. Get a face brush and use water hot enough to open the pores. Scrub your nose thoroughly with this night and morning and not just once, but gently and firmly for many times. Dip the brush into the soap water, scrub your nose, dip it in again and continue.

Pores Must Be Closed

Rinse off the suds and use an astringent to close the pores. This is important, for your hot water has opened them all up, your scrubbing has removed the dirt from the pores, and unless they are closed again, they are likely to fill up with dirt right away and be worse than before.

For another reason you need an astringent. You have now opened up the pores that were excessively loaded with oil. Rinsing off the suds and using an astringent closes them and the patting you do to put on the astringent acts as a little necessary massage to start circulation which prevents oiliness.

Before going into the sun, use a cream base for your powder. This protects the skin, especially that on the nose. You won't find your nose peeling if you are careful about this. Copyright 1931, NEA Service Inc.)

The broader should be under shelter, with good circulation of air around it, and the number of chicks should not be greater than it will accommodate comfortably under hot weather conditions.

LOCAL CHAPTER OF U. S. C. OF C. HEARS MANAGER

John M. Vander Vrees Addresses Twin City Business Men

Neenah—An informal meeting of the local chapter of United States Chamber of Commerce, was held Monday noon at Valley Inn following a luncheon. John M. Vander Vrees, manager of the North Central division of the United States Chamber of Commerce, was a guest. There were 20 twin city members who listened to a short talk by the Chicago executive on the objects of this association in which twin city business men recently became affiliated.

"You who have formed this organization at Neenah as a result of a vote on resolutions for the good of the national association as the New York or Chicago members have," he said. He told of the 1,200 chapters throughout the country, with a membership of more than 550,000, and the 500 or more trade associations affiliated with the national association composed of most every one of the business and industry forms a complete picture of the business world.

"Every one of these men are co-operating to do the job asked them to do by the government," he said. "We exist because the government asks us to exist and work for the good of the nation in which we live. We do not give up and kiss everything goodbye just because there is a depression. Things for the good of the government and the people are worked out in just such gatherings of business people as you. The one great trouble is that people do not think enough, think of other things than their own business ventures. You should think occasionally of things which go toward making your business a success, think of the farming business as a great asset to the nation's business as to your business."

He told of the great place to live in and made so because we have had different ideas than those of other countries. We have grown up with 'square deal and freedom in our business' as our motto."

Advices Broad Views

The speaker urged a bigger representation, taking in all branches of business, manufacturing and trade so that views from all angles can be ascertained during a debate on any question which might come up. He told of forming the national committees on certain subjects, enlisting men of great mind and education in fathoming out questions from all view points; the laws before the national legislative bodies which, in many cases, are works of these special committees appointed by the Chamber of Commerce which have worked from all angles to make the bills or laws satisfactory to place in the hands of our congressmen and senators for action.

The National body has no lobbyists at Washington, he claimed. In closing he asked the officers to enlist as many as possible into the organization. By so doing the city's business, the nation's business and the community's welfare will be of a high standard with the help of the Chamber of Commerce which is a dictionary and guide in all city affairs.

Chilton—The second annual homecoming was held at the fair grounds Saturday and Sunday under the joint auspices of the Eagles and Germanias. A parade was held Saturday afternoon, and was made up of floats of various business firms of the city, the Eagle and Germania Drill teams, Hilbert, Chilton and New Holstein bands, Harmonica band, Menasha Eagles Drum corps, and Milwaukee Aerobics Drum team. The latter put on an exhibition drill at the fair grounds in the afternoon. In addition there were free attractions both in the afternoon and evening, consisting of aerial trapeze artists, trained animals, acrobatic clowns and balancing acts. There was dancing in the pavilion all day, music being furnished by Shorty Hoffman's orchestra.

The heat spell has come and gone. Not in the memory of any even the oldest citizens has such a high and continued temperature been experienced in June this community will not be far from the record of 1913. Four deaths, a ruined crop, prematurely ripened barley, parched pastures, thousands of dead fish in the creeks, and a more or less general degree of damage to all farm crops are some of the way marks of the torrid June through which we have just passed.

The heat was also quite devastating to farm animals. The Chilton Canning company lost two horses, and it is reported that about a dozen head were brought to the Plymouth Breeding plant. Six hogs were seen lying dead in one farmer's yard, and Henry Weeks, Jr., a student carrying the Agriculture course in the high school, lost a valuable brood sow. The rearing, feeding and care of the animal constituted the student's "project" in his high school course.
The Chilton baseball team lost to Wisconsin Sunday afternoon 11 to 6. Oshkosh and Schoenfeld pitched for Chilton, with Fox as catcher.
This makes seven out of nine games that Chilton has lost. The team has been reorganized, and is composed entirely of local men. Einoff plays third, and Earl Kroehne infield. Other players will be Paul Fox, Ed Bloomer, Karbon, Miller, and Knauf. Under the new organization Chilton hopes to win the remainder of the season to be played.

These include the Mayflower hotel in Washington where Vice President Charles Curtis resided.

HEAT WAVE LOWERS MILK PRODUCTION

Cows Lose Energy Seeking Feed and Swatting Swarms of Flies

BY W. F. WINSEY

Due to hot weather, short pastures, and the worrying of cows by horse flies, the milk flow has been cut down, a third, perhaps, during the past two weeks. Under the best pasture conditions, industries covet as men do not enjoy working hard on hot days and prefer a rest in the shade of a tree or grove.

It is said that a cow producing 30 pounds of butterfat in a year exerts more bodily energy than a team of horses at daily work in a field. If that is true, or anywhere near the truth, her owner should see that she gets all the pasture she needs without traveling over woodlots, marshes, and extensive areas of non-producing, dried up timothy and June grass fields.

By supplying such a hard working cow with pure sweet clover pasture, she may fill up within her own length in a few minutes without carrying her body long distances or enduring physical exertion. If the owner of such a hard working cow will protect her also from a loss of strength in fighting flies, she will keep up her production record more easily.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU "CANCER"

If July 8th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1:30 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m., and from 8:45 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 10:30 a. m. and from 6:15 p. m. to 8:10 p. m.

The planetary aspects of July 8th denote an uneventful and uninteresting day, in which the atmosphere will be lethargic, rather than inspiring. In the evening, conditions will brighten up, and all social activities will yield pleasurable and amusing entertainment.

A child born on this July 8th will be gifted with a good "thinking" box, a logical mind, and the ability of self-expression—both oral and written. In early life it will show a marked "bent" and its own choice of vocation should be encouraged. Affections will be deep-rooted.

Born on July 8th, Fate destined you to achieve much, and nature equipped you with valuable gifts with a prodigal hand. If you have not made good, it is because you are never willing to sacrifice immediate pleasure for deferred reward. No matter how engrossing the task may be to which you are pledged, you allow the temporary joys of recreation and amusement to distract your attention and you are always ready to put off till tomorrow what should be done today.

You are undoubtedly clear, well informed and exceptionally versatile. When you are at work, you can accomplish more in a brief space of time than the ordinary worker can in days of application and toil. You have, too, a most engaging personality, and can, with a smile, always get your own way. If things did not come your way quite so easily, it is probable that you would apply yourself to your job more consistently and persistently.

Your horoscope denotes that you will have a successful career, but it will not be crowned with those rewards of which your many talents are worthy. Your home life promises every happiness, and, as a result of your charm, all your family circle will enjoy good companionship and enduring affection.

FARM WOMEN AID MATES IN FIELDS TO SAVE EXPENSES

W. F. WINSEY

On account of the unprecedented low ebb of farm incomes from milk, poultry and livestock preventing the employment of outside help, hundreds of farm women despite the hot sun and sweltering temperature are heroically assisting their husbands in loading and unloading hay, hoeing in the gardens and cornfields and in cultivating corn and potatoes. Beside these activities they are preparing meals, doing their other house work and milking cows in the bargain. As an excuse for their hard work, some of these women on Tuesday, while removing the perspiration from their faces declared that milk at 72 cents per hundred pounds, eggs at 13 cents per dozen, pork at 6 1/2 cents per pound, an calves at 6 1/2 cents per pound do not begin to pay the cost of production to say nothing of leaving a margin to pay for hired help.

RAIN SPEEDS GROWTH OF PREMATURE CROPS

Corn Stands Larger and Thriftier Than Former Years

BY W. F. WINSEY

It is generally agreed by farmers that the premature ripening of small grain brought on by the hot weather of the past two weeks will not be checked by the rain, Wednesday, but will be hastened by the soaking of the soil. The drought and the heat had given some fields of rye, winter wheat, oats and barley a color suggesting ripening and harvest that the owners did not enjoy so early in the season.

Farmers say that ripening small grain needs cool weather to fill and ripen into large yields. They also say that corn to grow rapidly needs hot weather. They can readily prove the truth of the latter statement by pointing to the cornfields about them and wiping the perspiration from their faces. It was never hotter than the past two weeks and corn was never larger and thriftier at this time of the year.

MANY HORSES DIE DURING HOT SPELL IN OUTAGAMIE-CO

BY W. F. WINSEY

During the past two weeks, hundreds of farm horses in Outagamie-co have succumbed to excessive heat. The losses are not confined to any special locality but are quite generally distributed. In the immediate vicinity of one village in the county, farmers reported the losses of 18 animals, and in the vicinity of another village seven animals.

Near a city, one lumber mill lost three horses, Wednesday, and seven more were on the sick list. After a rendering plant had collected over 100 carcasses it closed its intake and announced "overstocked." On account of the possibility of serious losses and humane considerations every person who works a horse should make its duties light on a hot day.

REPORT BIG YIELD OF PEAS THIS YEAR

Viners Swamped as Huge Loads Are Brought in, Report Says

BY W. F. WINSEY

Except in the territory of pea viner, most of the farmers are exceedingly busy making hay and cultivating corn. They are working early and late. Their activities about pea viner is shown by the fact that at 5 o'clock, Monday afternoon, 25 loads of peas were lined up on the highway of a viner near Green Bay waiting for their turn at the viner.

While these loads were waiting other light alfalfa mixtures are quite light but pure alfalfa is yielding quite satisfactorily in a number of fields. Sweet clover is producing the largest yield of hay running from two to three tons per acre. The great majority of the farmers have reserved their sweet clover fields, this year, to make up for a shortage of other hay. They are mowing their sweet clover so close to the ground that they cannot count on a second growth. Cured properly so that it will not mould in the mows and cause trouble sweet clover produces hay, in feeding value, the next thing to alfalfa, farmers who have made comparisons say. The only loss is the coarseness of the stems, and these may be cleaned up by horses.

Placed in a silo without drying on the ground in bundles from a grain binder, sweet clover is equal to the better grades of corn silage as a milk producer, experienced farmers report.

Pastures Light

Excepting sweet clover, pastures are now exceedingly light and are supplying very little feed for cattle and other farm animals. The spring frosts was broken too late to improve the pastures and the first cuttings of hay. To make up for the shortage of pasture, a number of Kewaunee-co farmers cut their alfalfa about two weeks ago and turned their cattle into the stubble. The majority of farmers are feeding their cattle in the stable. They are feeding hay, silage and in some cases grain that they mow in the fields. The hay fields and the grain fields after harvest will help in the solution of the short pasture problem.

Billy Burke Wins National Open Title In 72-Hole Play Off

BEATS VON ELM BY STROKE ON THE LAST HOLE

New Champion Acquires Title Vacated by Bobby Jones Last Fall

BY PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
OLEDO, O., (AP)—Billy Burke, 37, of Greenwald, Conn., sat on the throne of American golf today, victor of the game's longest and bitterest fought championship marathon.

His mighty, surefire war clubs brought home the big prize yesterday when he outlasted and out-shot the stout hearted George von Elm, big business man of golf from Los Angeles, by a single shot after a 72 hole overtime battle over the sun scorched Inverness layout.

Golf champions will come and go but the stirring battle between the new king and von Elm never will be forgotten as long as the game endures and the boys gather around the "nineteenth hole," to talk about the old Scotch pastime. It was a battle which lasted 144 holes and was not decided until the last stroke; a fight, which found the two deadlocked for first place with 292's against a field of 142 rivals after 72 regulation holes, another test that found them still in a stalemate after 36 holes of overtime with 149's and a thrilling skirmish which ended only after 35 more nerve wracking holes over the sand traps and narrow fairways of Inverness.

Von Elm sinks long putts
Von Elm, who sank a 15 foot putt for a birdie three on the home green to tie Burke in regulation time Saturday and then rammed home another from 12 feet on the same green in the first play-off Sunday to shove it into another play-off, couldn't duplicate his feats yesterday when the big showman came, but it wouldn't have helped him anyway. After another ding doing battle which saw one and then the other come up into the lead, Burke went one shot ahead on the thirty-second green and extended his margin to two on the thirty-fourth. It was too late and too much for Von Elm to make up that time and the long endurance battle ended with Burke freeing him out easily with par golf on the thirty-fifth and with safe and sane golf on the final green, where he measured three easy putts for a five to von Elm's par four. Both were almost too tired to accept congratulations as the wild gallery, which had stormed the course all day, swept toward them.

Final Duel Thriller
The final duel was a thriller from start to finish and not until Burke gained his two shot lead and held it to the thirty-sixth tee did it break up. In the morning the lead changed hands three times and four times the struggle was in deadlock. Whipping his drives sure and straight most of the way von Elm finally prevailed when he shelled the eighteenth for a par four while Burke, wild and short, got a five. The shift in fortunes sent von Elm to lunch one stroke in front with medal cards of 33-87 to Burke's 37-40-77.

Burke, an ex-caddy from Nantuxet, Conn., and son of Lithuanian-American parents, is rated as one of the greatest golfers in the game and promises to be a worthy successor to the mighty Bobby Jones who surrendered the title without firing a shot. His best game is his iron shots, the ones which kept him heads up with von Elm during the long grueling battle.

ALL STARS EASILY WIN FROM BRANDTS, 7 TO 4
Tommy Ryan's All Stars won another softball game last night when they defeated the Brandts of the National league 6 and 4 at McKinley school grounds. The Stars scored their runs in the first two innings getting eight hits off Lautenschlager. After the runs were pushed over the rubber, three more hits were scored but they brought nothing.

THE BRANDTS GOT FIVE HITS, GREENZBURG HURLED AGAINST THEM FOR FOUR INNINGS AND WAS FOLLOWED BY PRIDE AND RYAN.

TOLEDO MUD HENS HUMBLE MADISON, 13-6
Madison (AP)—Smacking 19 hits for a total of 39 bases, the Toledo Mud Hens of the American association last night defeated the Madison Bikes of the Wisconsin state baseball league, 13 to 6, in an exhibition game here. Elbert of the Blues singled the only home run of the game. Toledo scored 10 runs in the 13th and 14th.

Batteries: Van Gilder, Rabb and Devorner, Kries; Goff and Casey.

Calling the Strikes

New York (CPA)—There never have been so many native-born sons of Italian parents playing ball well as this year. They may crowd the descendants of other races into a minority, if the Irish, Germans, and the Yankees and Midwest boys don't watch the traffic lights.

Why not send a baseball team to Italy in the winter made up of Lombardi, catcher; Bonura, first base; Cuccinello, second base; Crosetti, shortstop; Molloy, third base; Pinielli, Lazzari and Orsatti in the outfield and Vinci and Vance for pitchers. Maybe Vance would not come strictly under the classification but he has been called a "big wop" and he lives in Homestead, Pa.

Powers 10, River-Inter. 10 (tie).

Wisconsin Michigan Power company and River-Inter softball teams tied 12 innings last night and then quit and went home with the score 10 all when darkness halted production.

The lead passed from one club to the other several times during the evening. The Powers rallied in the ninth with two runs and tied the score. In the twelfth they again rallied to bring the count even.

Bogan and Lewellen worked for the Powers and Route and Knoll for the Papermakers.

MACKS AND NATS TO RESUME SERIES TODAY

Washington (AP)—Washington and Philadelphia dug in for a finish fight today after yesterday's scoreless tie forced an extra game for tomorrow.

Conce Mack was ready to call on his ace, Grove, for the third game today, while Walter Johnson had another right hander primed, Crowder. Johnson was quick to order the play-off of yesterday's tie for tomorrow after he had defeated Earnshaw in the opener and used up Philadelphia's other member of the big-three yesterday, Walberg. He has come of the regulars ready for duty in the first three.

The pale blue eyes of the Boston sailor man flashed fiercely. He scowled and glared at his clenched fist. There will never be any trouble for any promoter engaging the Sharkey half of a match with the German who won their first meeting, and along with it recognition as a champion, on a ten in four rounds, after being soundly trounced in the first three.

Jack to Meet Micker
Sharkey came to town yesterday to sign articles and start training for his 12-round match with Micker Walker, the former middleweight champion, in Ebbetts Field, Brooklyn, July 22. A few hours later, Schmeling, hailed as a true champion after knocking out Young Stripling in the fifteenth round of their title go in Cleveland, the night before the fourth, sailed for Germany. He will return in August, probably for a September fight with Primo Camera, the Italian giant.

A DROPPED fly by a recruit outfielder in the last half of the ninth inning Sunday afternoon enabled Little Chute to squeeze out a 3-2 victory over the strong Green Bay nine in a Little Fox River Valley League battle and retain its lone grip on first place in loop standings. The Hollanders had a man on third base at the time with an easy fly to the outfield. The error broke up a hurler's duel between Art Wildenberg and Burnette, the only man to beat the Chutes this year.

Pauls, Neenah idle
Though the Menasha-Neenah game was postponed because of wet grounds, a Bay victory Sunday would have virtually tied Neenah with the Chutes for first place from put Green Bay just two games from the top in third place. The Baymen, with Hodek, a new hurler, working in fine shape, limited DePere to a single tally Saturday in the play-off of a postponed game, to win 8-1. DePere counted its lone marker in the ninth frame off Krieske, who relieved Hodek. Wilson got a home run for the Baymen.

Batteries were Hodek, Krieske and Simmons for the winners and Van Straton and Mommartz for the losers.

Appleton came back into victory row by giving DePere its second straight loss as Al Mommartz, visiting catcher, split a pair of knuckles. Kranzsch's steady hurling held the visitors to two runs while his mates pounded Kellerman, former Inter-county and Cleveland loop star, for nine markers.

Appleton and both Al and King Mommartz for DePere.

Send Out Invitations For Butte Des Morts Jamboree

ANNOUNCEMENTS of the first golf jamboree at Butte des Morts golf club have been sent to members together with reservation slips for guests. Plans for the all day golf event which will be held July 15, were started about two weeks ago at which time the event was announced. The second step in the program was sending out invitations.

The prize committee of the Jamboree met yesterday at Butte des Morts and completed the list of awards which will be made contestants. Merchandise prizes now will be solicited by the group. Practically every golfer who competes in the Jamboree will be awarded a prize, according to plans.

Details of the day's events as noted in letters sent to the members calls for golf to begin at 10 o'clock in the morning with foursomes starting out every five minutes. A German band is being secured to wander over the course during the day and there will be plenty of refreshments. A buffet lunch will be served from 12 to 2:30 and dinner will be served at 7:30 in the evening.

SAINTS, RED BIRDS IN CRUCIAL SERIES

Chicago (AP)—Albert Leifeld's league-leading St. Paul club today went into a four game series with the in-and-out Columbus Red Birds and hoped the Birds were having one of their "out" streaks.

The Saints were leading the American association by three and one-half points following a successful holiday campaign, the longest lead any team has had in several weeks, hoped to make the stand against the Red Birds profitable enough to add to their lead. Columbus, however, was not rated as a pushover, for Neumann Leifeld's club has proven troublesome, especially against the first division teams.

Louisville, present occupant of second place, was down to entertain Kansas City for four days, while Milwaukee, third place holder, had Indianapolis as its opposition. Toledo was at Minneapolis for another four-game set.

The whole league was idle yesterday, scheduled games having been played off as part of the Fourth of July and weekend programs.

MAX BAER DENIES HE'LL WED DIVORCEE

Reno, Nevada (AP)—Rumor today continued to link the name of Max Baer, curly-headed ring fighter who lost a 20-round battle here Saturday to Pauline Lezundum, with that of Mrs. Dorothy Wells, formerly Dorothy Dunbar, ex-actress.

Asked if he planned to marry Mrs. Wells, and he was asked the question often during his training period and before and after the fight, Baer's answer was always a bluish and the statement he "did not know about marrying."

Mrs. Wells secured a divorce here several months ago, and while she was establishing a residence, she met Baer. He had come to Reno for a short visit.

When the reports that they were to be married were first heard, Mrs. Wells denied there was anything more than friendship between herself and the fighter. She admitted, however, that his photograph was on her dressing table. Mrs. Wells attended the fight here.

ROBINS' WINNING STREAK STOPPED BY JUMBO ELLIOTT

Former Brooklyn Hurler Beats Ex-pals, 6-5; Cards Beat Cubs

BY GAYLE TABOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
IT still is a matter of conjecture whether the Brooklyn Robins got the better of the deal whereby they parted with Jumbo Jim Elliott and two other players in exchange for Lefty O'Doul and Fresno Thompson.

At any rate, it would appear that the Jovial Uncle Robbie made a tactical error in turning Elliott over to a club in the same league. Since joining the Phillies the big fellow has pitched ten ball against all comers, but he has been particularly poisonous to his former mates. But for the treatment they have received at Elliott's hands, the Robins would be in the thick of the National League pennant fight today.

Beats ex-Pals, 5-3
Facing his former pals yesterday for the seventh time this year, Elliott turned in his fifth victory over the flock, 5 to 3. He held them to six hits, four of which came in the last three innings, and was their master all the way. Hal Lee, who accompanied Big Jim to Philadelphia, also took a healthy slap at his former comrades in the form of a home run with one on. Buzz Arlett drove in the other three Phillie runs.

There seems to be a law, incidentally, against the Robins winning six straight. Yesterday marked the fourth time this season they have met defeat after a run of five consecutive victories. The reverse came then a virtual tie with the Giants for third place, as rain held the McGrawmen idle at Boston.

The St. Louis Cardinals went into the final inning one down to the Chicago Cubs, but they emerged with a 6 to 5 victory. A walk to Sparky Adams and successive doubles by Jim Collins and Wally Roettger scored two runs and defeated Bob Smith. Five curves worked for the league leaders.

Nats, Macks Rained Out
Washington and Philadelphia, meeting in the second game of their important American league series, might have been battling yet but for a downpour that cleared the diamond in the last of the eighth.

Neither Rube Walberg, the champions' star southpaw, nor Bump Hadley had allowed a run up to that time, and they were getting stronger all the time. The Senators, however, had a runner on second and only one out when the umpires motioned them in.

The Cleveland Indians went on another scoring rampage to square their series with Detroit, 13 to 4. Herring was bounced for eight runs in the sixth inning. Johnny Burnard led the assault with three singles driving in five runs. Willis Hudler went the route for the Indians.

Vic Fraser, the White Sox rookie right-hander, yielded only five hits and struck out nine batters in subduing the St. Louis Browns, 5 and 0. Home runs by Goose Goslin and Omer Nichols accounted for all the Browns' runs. Tate rapped a double and triple off two St. Louis pitchers.

Rain interfered with the Yankee-Red Sox encounter at New York.

EXIT

by Harold Bell Wright

Chapter 23
HARRIGAN'S last word to Pierre that morning when the boy set out alone from Dripping Spring was: "Keep yer eyes on Mother Mountain. Head straight for the little hollow between her breasts and ye'll never go amiss. And remember to stick close to the trail if ye should have to come back alone. Ye'll be in no danger of strayin' into Skeleton Sink av ye do as I'm tellin' ye."

And the Irishman's heart had gone out to the boy when Pierre tried to hide his fears with a bit of burlesque acting. That the boy could force himself to undertake the adventure in spite of his terror won the old prospector's admiration.

Scarcely was Pierre beyond shouting distance from his friend when loneliness so oppressed him that he almost turned back. But with grim determination he fixed his eyes on Mother Mountain and forced himself on. He dared not halt for an instant. An hour passed. Then he ventured to stop and look around.

Far away to the southwest he could see a column of dust—Jimmie Harrigan and his burro! He watched until even that sign of another human being vanished. With a cry he turned and drove himself on.

The sun climbed up the empty sky. The heat grew more intense; the silence and the desolation more appalling.

He went on.

As he walked with his eyes on Mother Mountain, memories of his childhood crowded his mind. The cruelties of those early years before his father disappeared, experiences from that period when he and his mother were together on the stage; and then his beautiful companionship with her in Orchard Hill.

Vividly, Pierre recalled that first meeting with his mother's old friend when, in his childish way, he had decided that the old actor should be his Father Tony. Never had Father Tony failed him.

On the crest of a low ridge he paused to search the desert ahead with anxious eyes. Bruce and his companion were not in sight. There was nothing moving in that vast expanse.

He went on.

He lived again those months of his mother's illness, and thought of her dreams for him that had governed all his life. He recalled his mother's talks about the theater. He remembered her words when she spoke to him about her approaching death, and how after her exit she would stand in the wings to watch him act his part. He called her name aloud.

He wondered, was she watching him now from the wings? If he should make his exit somewhere in the desert would she be there to receive him? He recalled bits from favorite plays. He imagined himself in a theater before an immense audience, and spoke as if he were playing a part in a great play. He remembered that Ann had said she would sit in a box and throw him a kiss.

With increasing anxiety, he watched for the men that Harrigan had been so confident he would meet.

He went on.

The sun hung high overhead in an empty white sky.

He crouched in the shade of a rock and ate a little food and drank sparingly from his canteen.

He went on.

As he pushed on deeper and deeper into the interminable desert to find Bruce, scenes from their boyhood together passed before him: Their fight when, beside himself with rage because Bruce had spoken lightly of his mother, he had nearly killed the other boy with a stone. Their rivalry for Ann. Bruce a bank clerk; the wedding Ann as Bruce's wife. Incidents from that period when he made his home with Bruce and Ann.

Again he lived that hour when his love for Ann had made him surrender his school money to Bruce. Once more he endured the agony of the realization that he could not now fulfill all that his mother and Father Tony and he had planned for his future. And again he felt the madness of that moment when he and Ann, looking into each other's eyes, had seen their love, and in that some instant had ruthlessly denied it. And Bruce had gone away and left Ann because of him. And now his love for Ann was driving him on to find her husband and take him back to her.

Surely here in this desert so terrible in its vast desolation—so empty of all life—surely here there was no reason why he should not speak aloud his love. He shouted, "Ann, Ann, Ann! I love you, Ann! I love you—love you—love you!"

Every endeavor that he had felt but never dared to put into words even in his secret thoughts he cried aloud now to the silent desert. And then, as if she walked beside him, he reassured her with promises that she should not be ashamed in Orchard Hill through his love because he would bring her husband back; her father's innocence should be established, and everything would be as it was.

From the crest of every ridge and from every bit of high land he strained his eyes to catch a glimpse of the men he hoped with every mile to meet.

The sun moved slowly down the empty sky; the shadows lengthened. He went on, and on, and on.

He seemed to have been walking for ages. Mother Mountain was as far away as when he first set out upon his endless journey. He looked back but could not tell the way he had come beyond a hundred yards of faintly marked trail.

Beside a tiny campfire he crouched staring into the darkness which shut him in, listening, listening in the awful silence—feeling in every taut nerve the menace of that lonely land.

The night was an eternity.

Pierre Donovan had no illusions about himself, nor was he given to that self-deception which so commonly marks small natures. His belief that he was born to be an actor was founded upon his mother's convictions and Antonio Latour's judgment. He modestly felt that he had, as he would have expressed it, something. But he was too intelligent and too well schooled by Old Tony not to know that the goal of his ambitious dreams was years away. He felt that for him to attain that goal was within the realm of the possible—that was all. In the meantime he was a soda jerk.

He was aware that the good people of Orchard Hill laughed at him; that they refused to take him seriously; that his ambition to be a great actor was the standing joke of the countryside; that he was held to be irresponsible, impractical, worthless disciple of old Tony Latour's, the least. He had not pretended to Jimmie Harrigan that the desert did not frighten him. He made no attempt to deny his fears to himself. But there was something within him which drove him on, in spite of his fear. Perhaps Old Tony was right when he said that Pierre Donovan was a great soul.

In the first gray light of the morning he went on.

With the coming of the sun his spirit lifted. Mother Mountain had moved nearer during the night. He sang bits of comic songs. He felt confident that he would find Blackwater Tanks and Bruce.

He went on.

Again doubts and fears beset him. What if Bruce and his companion were not at Blackwater Tanks? What if he had perished of thirst and he should find their dead bodies? Dripping Spring seemed, now, an eternity away. He looked back but could not even be sure of the direction. As the man of the desert had said, there would be no Mother Mountain to guide him on his way back. The Skeleton Peaks, too, were nearer and on his right lay the terrible Skeleton Sink. What if the wind should whisker his trail? He carefully estimated the amount of water in his canteen and went on.

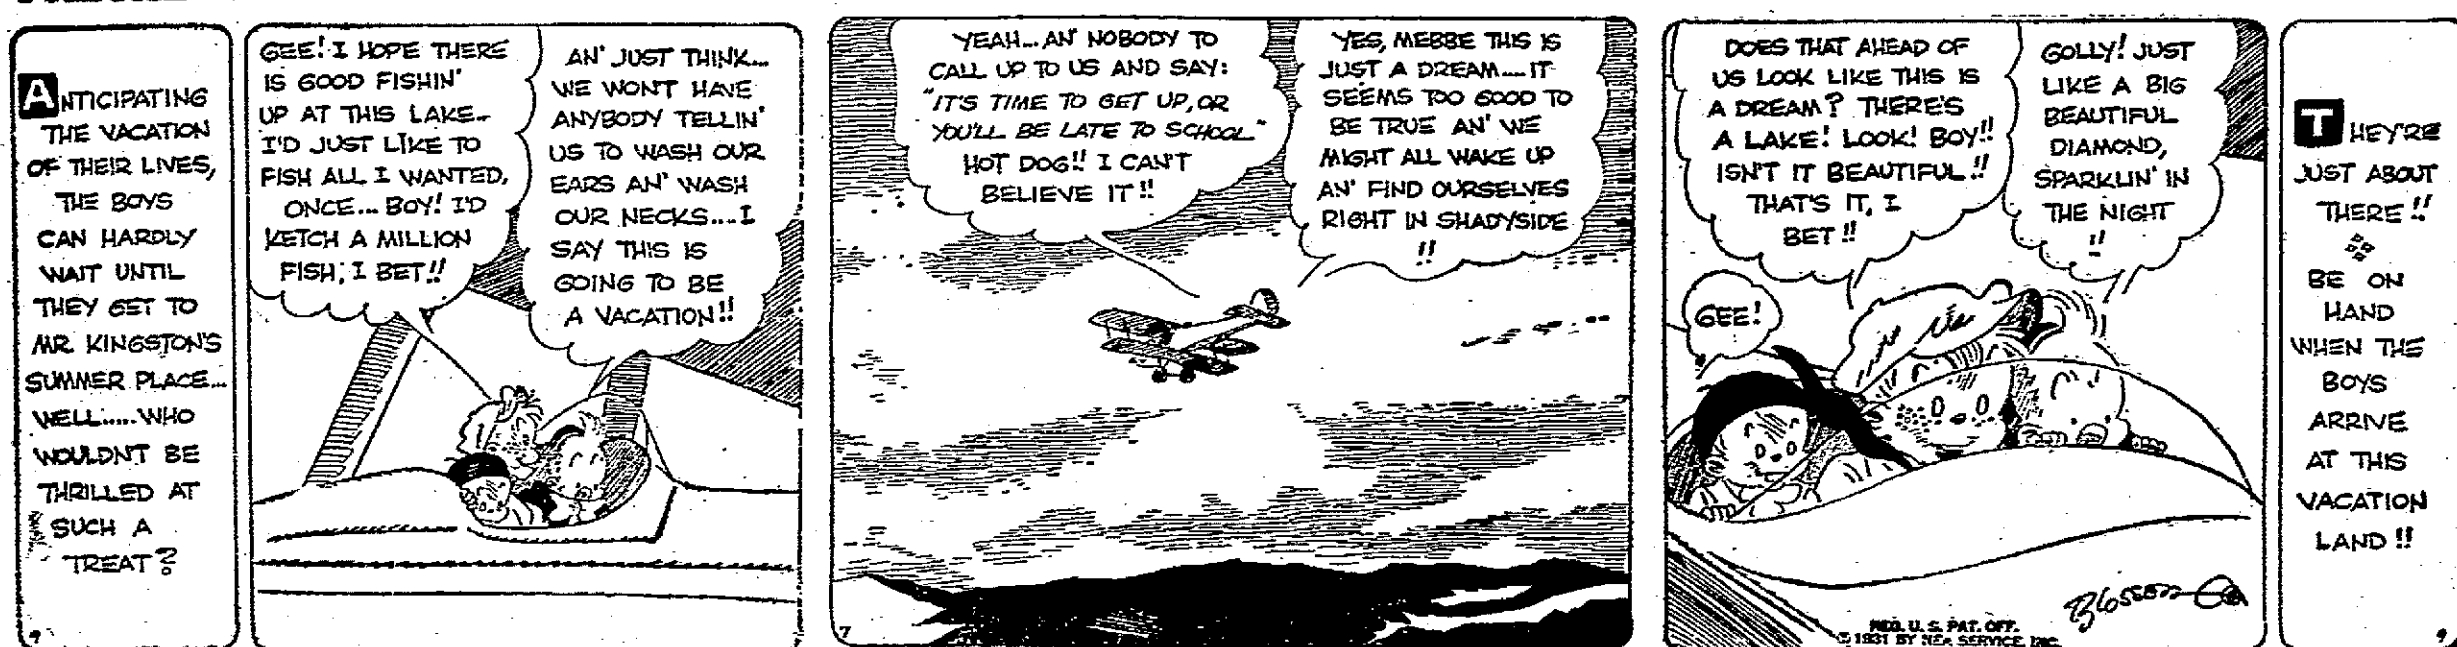

At last the long slope of Mother Mountain lay before him and he knew he must be near the Tanks. (Copyright, 1930, by D. Appleton and Co.)

Gold glitters! But to Bruce tomorrow the gleam of water is far more important.

STREET GIVES FULL VALUE TO PUBLIC VIEWS

General Sentiment Has Much to Do With Speculation Attitude

BY CARLTON A. SHIVELY
(Copyright 1931 by Cons. Press)
Wall Street, as the heart and brains of speculation, gives full value to such intangibles as public sentiment. That is why the security markets turned so buoyant on President Hoover's call for a German and allied debt moratorium. It explains the market's strength during the period of nervousness with France on disputed points. The markets were discounting complete acceptance of the scheme and were betting that it would be an important factor in laying the world-wide trade depression.

With agreement in principle and virtually on all details a fact, Wall Street is inquiring more closely into what may be the economic consequences of the German moratorium. It is also looking for other Central European countries have been rescued from a state of mind bordering on despair, with the possibility of political disturbances of a serious order. In recognizing Europe's difficulties and in taking the lead in concrete proposals, this country has done much toward restoration of confidence abroad and at home.

See Further Calls
First results are likely to be further calls for credit, principally on the United States. A Hungarian credit of $20,000,000, arranged through the federal reserve bank, the bank for international settlements and the central banks of England and France, was announced over the weekend. Credit for $100,000,000 given last week by the same banks to the German reichsbank is virtually exhausted. It may be necessary to increase it, or, as reported Monday, the gold discount bank, a reichsbank subsidiary, will add $50,000,000 to an equal amount obtained from private banks, headed by the international acceptance bank, three years ago. This first $50,000,000, unused has been extended.

Credits for Germany and other countries granted by private bank syndicates and the strong government central banks are quite different from long term loans made by bond offerings in the open market. Talk of another German bond issue in this market is, to say the least, premature. A German 7 per cent external loan was sold in 1924 at 92, to provide approximately $100,000,000 for making first payments under the Dawes plan for reparations. A year ago a German International 5 1/2 per cent bond issue, netting about $300,000,000 was sold in this country and Europe at 90. This country's share was $38,250,000. This money was to enable Germany to start operations under the Young plan for reparations. Payments under which have now been postponed for a year.

Obligations Of Germany
Both of these loans are obligations of the German government, come ahead of strictly reparations payments to the allied nations, and are in no wise affected, except sentimentally, by the general moratorium. Dawes plan 7 per cent, the first charge, are selling around 100, recently having been as low as 93 1/2. The Young plan 5 1/2's, which dropped as low as 63, have improved to 75. At the price the current return is 7.36 per cent and a yield to maturity of about 7.5 per cent.

Even though the American market were receptive to fresh German

SHIPPERS DISAPPROVE FREIGHT RATE BOOST

Madison — (P) — Disapproval of the proposed 15 per cent increase in freight rates was expressed by some 75 representatives of chambers of commerce and shipping associations who attended a hearing before the public service commission yesterday.

A. R. MacDonald, commissioner who presided at the hearing was in Kansas City today to meet with the National Association of Railroad Commissioners. Seven state commissioners will be selected to sit with the interstate commerce commission in Washington July 15 when the first hearing on the proposed rate increases will be held.

Note Drop In Guest Count At Capitol

Madison — (P) — The number of visitors to the state capitol slumped during June to 1,187, one of the lowest marks in several years.

Sherman Dodge, chief guide at the state house, said the number of visitors last month was less than half the number of June, 1930, when 5,498 persons viewed the interesting parts of the capitol.

A total of 43,304 persons were conducted through the capitol by the guide in 1930 but Mr. Dodge said the years 1925-26 and 1927 each brought approximately 150,000 visitors. A total of 15,058 persons visited the capitol during the first six months of this year as compared with 16,344 during the same period last year.

Many Children
In 1929 there were 55,207 visitors who followed the guide, 9,881 of them children. There were 8,311 school children from all parts of the state in the capitol this year. Mr. Dodge reported visitors from every state except New Hampshire and from various foreign countries through the state house last year.

During the first six months of 1931, visitors came from 32 states and from Norway, Canada, Japan, China, India, Poland, England and Germany. Last year the capitol had visitors from South Africa who told the guide he had heard of the Wisconsin state capitol from a friend in Canada.

Mr. Dodge had 363 newlyweds in his guiding excursions last year but 1931 has thus far been a bad year in that respect. The chief guide said he had no trouble in spotting the newlyweds among the scores of visitors which come to the capitol.

bond issues, which it decidedly is not, it is apparent that Germany could not afford to sell new bonds until prices of old bonds had risen a great deal further. Commercialization of the entire unconditional portion of the reparation payments—about $157,080,000—being a first charge on the German railway system, is in the minds of the Young plan designers. Economic events have forced delay. Provided no complete revision of the Young plan be made after the year of grace on payments, another loan anticipating the unconditional portion may be made. This country in any event may not be asked to subscribe. France probably would take all the remainder.

Long term borrowing, which is urgently needed in most European and South American countries, is one of the question until conditions become much nearer stability. An exception is Argentina, which may seek a refunding loan in the autumn. Scandinavia countries, immune from recent political disturbances, also are expected to float refunding loans this year and next.

Except with a hand very greatly overvalued with compensated values in side suits, justifying at least two (preferably more) rebids in a long suit, an original bid should indicate to partner an opening lead that not only should do no harm but on the average should do some good.

It must always be taken into consideration that, even though the primary object of a bid is to accomplish something for own side, there is always the possibility of opponent to the left obtaining the final declaration. In this case it is very important that partner should make the best opening lead from a defensive standpoint.

Hence, the original bid should proclaim some high card value in the suit bid, and this point should be stressed to the extent of opening the bidding with a four card minor suit so headed, rather than with a long major suit lacking high card value, which cannot be rebid more than once on account of being less than seven or eight cards.

The wisdom of this convention happens to be thoroughly demonstrated in the above deal.

Whether South, the Dealer, opens the bidding with One Spade, One Club or passes, adversaries will play the hand with Hearts the trump.

With the Spade as the opening bid, game cannot be saved for North would be very happy to have such an opening lead as he has the King and a small card of partner's original suit bid. Naturally he would expect to take the King in his own hand and his partner to take the second trick with the Ace enabling North to trump the third round, thus making three tricks as a start. With the King of Spades in his own hand, it would appear that partner, to have an opening bid, would have one other defensive trick.

Even should South pass, North's normal opening would be either the Diamond or Club, and if the Club should happen to be opened, game would be saved.

However, if South makes the proper opening bid of One Club, there is no method by which East and West can possibly go game, for North will open the Two of Clubs. South will correctly read him for four and, after taking two Club tricks, lead a Spade and establish North's King while the Ace of Diamonds is still held.

Salient Points of Bidding

Contract: South opens the bidding with One Club. West bids One Heart; North passes and East bids Two Hearts. South bids Two Spades and West bids Four Hearts, concluding the bidding.

Auction: South opens the bidding with One Club. West bids One Heart and North and East pass. South bids One Spade and West bids Two Hearts concluding the bidding.

The Play

The play and the reason therefor have been discussed in the preamble.

In spite of Mr. Whithead's recent death his daily articles on bridge will be continued for some time. A considerable amount of advance material was prepared by him.

Mellon Free For Delayed Vacation After Parleys

Washington — (P) — A financial man who turned diplomat at 76 to work for a world debt holiday today was free for his vacation interrupted by the most tense international negotiations of recent years.

Andrew W. Mellon has handled more millions in private business and more billions in his ten years as secretary of the treasury than the average imagination can conceive.

But official Washington was worried about the health of the venerable cabinet official as the terrific strain of the Paris negotiations continued day by day with a pressure that was putting a mark on much younger men.

Mellon reached Paris June 25 after numerous conferences with the British government. From that day he has been almost constantly in conferences that often ran well past midnight, and between times, talking to Washington on the trans-Atlantic telephone.

World financial markets, vibrating to each report from the negotiations, added to the strain of America's chief representative.

From Paris came reports of "admiration" for Mellon's "continued evidence of wiry strength."

His Washington friends shared

this admiration and had an explanation for it. They said Mellon, calm and unexcitable, probably did less talking and more listening than any other conferee. At least, that's the way he does business at home.

A long day is no novelty to the treasury chief, whose years apparently have scarcely slowed his capacity for work. His usual quitting time is 6 o'clock, or an hour and a half after government offices officially close.

In the morning, if the day is fair, he walks from his home, a slim, quiet figure attracting little attention on the capital's streets.

Mellon talks slowly and his occasional remarks must have received close attention from French officials awaiting translation by an embassy attaché.

The opinion held of him by many Americans seemed to spread abroad during the negotiations, for from a German newspaper came the description: "He is immune from the lure of honors for he is beyond human vanities. They cannot confuse nor bulldoze him, for this 76-year-old American is tough as Yankee chewing gum, used to working 12 hours a day and is even fresher at night than in the daytime."

19 BILLS DIE IN GOVERNOR'S POCKET AS SESSION ENDS

LaFollette Refuses Approval to Legislative Measures

Madison — (P) — Governor LaFollette used a "pocket veto" on 19 bills by the legislature when he permitted them to go unsigned at midnight July 4, the last day on which they could be approved.

The bill for a 50-cent resident fishing license was the major measure which died at midnight. Among the others were:

By committee—appropriating $15,000 for the installation of an automatic voting machine in the senate.

By Sen. Irving Michigan, Milwaukee—permitting the Milwaukee board to redistrict Milwaukee so as to allow the election of 20 to 25 supervisors.

By Sen. Bernhard Gettelman, Milwaukee—appropriating $12,000 annually for additional deputy fire marshals and the collection of statistics on fire losses.

By committee—appropriating $10,000 for the purchase of additional land for the branch agricultural station at Spooner.

By Assemblyman Ben Tremaine, Huster—permitting taxes to be paid semi-annually.

By Assemblyman Ben Rubin, Milwaukee—requiring all prison made goods to be labeled as such after 1934.

By Assemblyman Daniel LaBar, Delavan—permitting non-resident fishermen who own property in Wisconsin to use their fishing licenses throughout the year.

By Assemblyman John Mulder, La Crosse—revising fishing laws which pertain to the boundary waters between Wisconsin and Minnesota.

By Assemblyman Charles Westfahl, Milwaukee—prohibiting records of evidence in divorce cases from being impounded.

By committee—permitting the state board of control to parole prisoners who have served less than one-half of their terms.

By Assemblyman G. Erie Ingram, Eau Claire—prohibiting the impounding of more than 75 per cent of the natural flow of a stream by a dam.

By Assemblyman Michael Laffey, Milwaukee—permitting cities to issue bonds for the purchase of sites for police stations, and for building for the police department.

BANK OF CATALONIA CLOSES ITS DOORS

Barcelona — (P) — The Bank of Catalonia suspended payments today, attributing its difficulties to the economic depression. Its assets were valued at approximately $37,800,000, and its liabilities at $33,300,000.

RUN ON GENEVA BANK

Geneva — (P) — The bank of Geneva still was open today and paying out deposits following a run by depositors which has continued since the middle of last week. The run had its origin in the circulation of reports that the bank had been affected by mismanagement and losses.

Celebrate Quiet July 4 At Nation's Capital City

BY DOROTHEA J. LEWIS
(Post-Crescent's Washington Society Editor)

Washington—Red, blue and white flares and rockets zooming about the spire of the Washington monument. Less patriotic ones also of yellow, green, purple and gold. And little illegal bangs and booms and fizzes of smuggled firecrackers. The Fourth in Washington!

A gala holiday weekend but a rather quiet one. As far as special activities went, conventions seemed to have everything their way. Kappa Delta, with many Wisconsin members, held their convention during the week. Their headquarters were at the Wardman Park hotel in the cooler part of the city and the swimming pool was in constant use.

The Badger State Kappa Delta at the twentieth national convention, were Miss Olga Achtenhagen of Appleton, national editor; Irma Molzow, delegate from Pel Chapter at Lawrence college, Appleton; Helen Kuenzli, of Wauwatosa, delegate from the Milwaukee Alumni association; and Sylvia Meyer of Tau Chapter at the Washington Alumnae association. Miss Meyer's country, both Meyer of Minneapolis, also a delegate was the Meyer's guest for the week.

Visit Washington
Amos and Andy are going to Wisconsin! And they're going to take their fresh-air taxicab, lunchroom, and troubles right along with them. The famous black-face mispronouncers decided that they wanted and deserved a vacation and that they wanted that vacation in Lake Geneva, Wis. They so informed the National Broadcasting company and National Broadcasting company has arranged to pipe their program from the vacation bungalow at Lake Geneva.

So when Andy struts down on Lennox-ave just wink knowingly at your neighbor, and when Amos calls Harlem 6730, try not to gasp at the expense. It's all the business of illusion.

Mr. and Mrs. George Haag of Appleton were honeymooning in the National capitol during the week. "Doing the town" in a day or so, they drove on to New York for a few days in the metropolis. They expected to get home Monday.

Dr. and Mrs. Larkin W. Glazebrook and their daughter Virginia, began motoring to Beloit on Wednesday. They will visit their son Robinson Glazebrook in Beloit. Later Miss Virginia Glazebrook will go on to Denver and Colorado Springs to visit Miss Dorothy Dodge for several months.

Miss Dorothy Bromberg of Los Angeles spent the Fourth with her parents, Judge and Mrs. Irvine L. Lenroot at Brule, Wis.

Judge and Mrs. Lenroot and another daughter, Miss Katherine Lenroot, drove to Wisconsin several weeks ago. Miss Lenroot is now back in Washington.

Mrs. Benjamin Wald of Stanley, Wis., has been a recent Washington visitor, staying with her sister Mrs. Thomas L. Good.

Arrive for Tests
Two Wisconsin youngsters, Meta Wege of Norrie and Lester Shade, of Rochester, and their chaperoning teacher, A. R. Thiede, superintendent of Wausau public schools, are going to have a royal good time in the National Capital next week.

They are Wisconsin's representatives in an unusual test of the value of visual education. President Hoover was asked by the educators and the motion picture people, who are cooperating in this country-wide project, to invite representatives from every state to Washington. He consented and asked Governor Philip LaFollette of Wisconsin and the 47 other governors to send a boy and a girl from the eighth grade graduating class and a teacher to the National Capital.

Dean William C. Ruediger of George Washington university, and a graduate of University of Wisconsin, is in charge of the test.

"Believing that 'one picture is worth a thousand words' the boys and girls will be examined on certain subjects upon their arrival and again on their departure next Friday to see how much they have learned after seeing many educational films. Between working hours, though, they are going to have lots of fun with dinners, parties and sight-seeing. They will stay at Wardman Park hotel, where the Kappa Delta has a busy this week.

Rep. and Mrs. John C. Schaefer and family will probably leave Washington for Wisconsin early next week.

LEGION MEMBERSHIP ROLL AT MILLION MARK

The American Legion membership in the United States has reached the 1,002,628 mark, according to word received here from national headquarters. At the present time there are 115,000 more legionnaires than there were during the same period in 1930, according to officials of the Oney Johnson post here. Last year the membership was 887,000.

Wisconsin has 30,347 members, or 101.34 per cent of its quota in the 1931 membership campaign, now drawing to a close.

WOULD PUBLISH STATEMENTS OF BANKS IN DETAIL

Depositors Can't Ascertain True Position of Bank, Report Says

BY C. E. UPHAM

Copyright, 1931, Cons. Press Washington—(CPA)—Proposal has been advanced and given some discussion in banking circles, especially among officials charged with the duty of bank supervision, that greater detail be required in the published statements made by banks from time to time in response to the "calls" that are made by the controller of the currency and the state bank supervisors.

A glance at the statements of condition that are now appearing, showing the position of banks as of June 30, will indicate the impossibility of the ordinary bank depositor getting anything but a very general idea of the soundness or solvency of his bank.

The depositor cannot tell, for instance, what the securities in the investment portfolio are, their classification or maturity. He has no way of telling whether the loans are good or for how long they will run. He does not know whether the "reserves" are real reserves against unknown contingencies, or actually write-offs of known losses. Even a hidden capital impairment would not be discoverable to him.

More Information

The balance sheet of a mercantile or manufacturing corporation usually contains considerably more information than does a bank statement. Many concerns, such as public utilities, are required by law to submit more detailed information. Investment trusts in some cases make public their entire lists of investment holdings. Insurance companies must do so in their annual statements filed with the states in which they do business.

Discussion of banking matters before committees of congress recently has indicated a possibility that such publicity will shortly be required of investment affiliates of national banks.

Opponents of the extension of this practice to commercial banks insist that, even if it might be found advisable in the future, now is no time to advance the idea because of the embarrassing situation many weak banks would be in—banks which can work out of their present difficulties if given a little time, but which might be forced to close if it were necessary to make known the real facts about their investments and their loans.

Matter Of Confidence?

Some persons, among them thoughtful and conservative observers, feel that publicity of this character would be a mistake at any time. Banking is a matter of confidence, they say, and the depositor should select a bank in whose officers and management he has confidence and not try to follow the details of operation. The ordinary customer of a bank would either not take time and trouble to analyze the bank statement anyway, it is argued, or if he did he would not get a very much better understanding of it than he does now.

The statements of federal land banks give much greater detail as to their condition than do ordinary commercial banks, and yet probably few of those who deal with the banks or buy their securities inspect the statements for condition. One suggestion which has received some approval from conservative bankers is that after each examination the amounts of assets listed by examiners as doubtful or slow or as losses be shown in the bank statements. This might lead to more careful loans and investments, or it might lead to less severe criticism of the bank on the part of examiners—and the evidence seems all to point to not enough severity in that particular in the past.

ALCOHOLISM DEATHS INCREASE IN STATE

Fewer Lives Lost From Major Causes During May

Madison—(P)—Although the major causes of death, claimed less victims in Wisconsin in May, 1931 as compared with May, 1930, deaths from alcoholism increased, the state board of health reported today.

There were 2,541 deaths in May, 1931, a decrease of 246 from the toll of the same month last year. Tuberculosis took 124 lives last month as compared with 170 in May, 1930 while cancer victims numbered 277, a decrease of 24 from the number in May, 1930.

There were 43 less deaths from violence in May than in the same month last year. The toll in May, 1931 was 236. Deaths from alcoholism numbered 25, an increase of 29 over the 1930 May total.

Auto accidents caused 53 deaths in May, a decrease of five and suicides numbered 48, a decrease of 16. There were 257 infants deaths last month, representing a decrease of 16. Deaths of persons 65 years and over totaled 1,104 to make a decrease of 83 cases.

The board's survey also revealed a decrease in the number of deaths attributable to pneumonia, influenza, scarlet fever and measles.

45 MILK DEALERS FAIL TO GET NEW LICENSES

Although all milk licenses should have been secured by July 1, there are still about 45 that have not been renewed, Theodore Sanders, deputy health officer, announced Monday. Most of the milk dealers have obtained their licenses, but the retailers are procrastinating. If all permits are not secured within a few days, the delinquents will be turned over to the police department for collection.

OLDEST CLASS HAS LARGEST REDUCTION

80 - year - or - older Class Shows Biggest Drop in Number of Deaths

Madison—True enough, the last shall be first. Take, for instance, the oldest group in Wisconsin, men and women 80 years old or over. They suffered 314 fewer deaths in 1930 than in 1929, the largest reduction effected by any of the 15 age groups into which the state bureau of vital statistics classifies the population.

Total deaths in this group last year reached only 3,332 from all causes, as compared with 4,246 in 1929, and the result of this may throw for a loss last year's average age at death of all the state's deceased, a trifle less than 52 years. But who cares, so long as the octogenarians, nonagenarians, and centenarians of the state can remain well and happy?

Heart diseases were the predominant death cause in this age group last year, claiming 1,115 lives, but this was 209 less than the corresponding item for the preceding year, indicating that Wisconsin patriarchs are wisely refraining from indulgence of the modern craving for speed and more of it.

Cerebral hemorrhage was second in importance among the death causes, followed by nephritis, cancer, pneumonia, diseases of arteries, senility, accidents, influenza and bronchitis, for this age group.

A glance at the chief death cause for each of the 15 age groups in the
